Acts to Begin Razing of Junior High By Jan. 1

BOARD SEEKS BIDS AS PWA URGES SPEED

State Office Says Work on 2 New Schools Must Start by First of Year.

SIMPSON PLANS UNREADY

Construction Bids to Be Asked Later; Open Bids on Other Junior High Dec. 9.

Acting on an order from regional WPA officials at Columbus to start work on Mansfield's two new junior high schools by Jan. 1, the Mansfield board of education met at noon today and approved a call for bids for the razing of the old John Simpson Junior high building.

Because architects' plans for the new $450,000 John Simpson building are not complete, it will be impossible to ask for construction bids on the John Simpson project until later this month, Dr. J. H. Bristor, clerk of the board, announced.

Open Razing Bids Dec. 31.

He said that the board plans to open bids on the razing of the old building on Dec. 31, earliest date possible under the state law.

Under PWA regulations, any move to raze the old building constitutes a beginning of construction on the project. Equipment in the [illegible] of the building, which were condemned by the state fire marshal last summer, already has been removed by employes of the school maintenance department.

Start Work This Month.

The board will open bids for construction of the proposed $450,000 Johnny Appleseed junior high building on Dec. 9, and it is believed that construction work on the building will be under way before the end of the year.

The 1,300 pupils at the John Simpson school will be removed to other buildings in the city when razing of that building starts.

Supt. W. L. Miller of the city schools obtained PWA approval of the advertisement for razing bids in Columbus this morning, and the school board needed only to give it final approval.

Bromfield To Be Guest Columnist For News-Journal

IT IS NOT unusual for the nationally known newspaper columnists to have celebrities "guest-column" for them, but it is doubtful if Walter Winchell, Heywood Broun and Franklin P. Adams combined ever had a more distinguished "guest writer" than will column for Jane Williams of The News-Journal staff tomorrow.

Louis Bromfield, Mansfield-born novelist, who is the author of a best seller every time he writes a novel, and who has publishers clamoring at his doorstep, turns out "Not That It Matters" this week.

Rambling over country roads in search of his "dream farm" and meandering up and down Main street and over the city since his return to Ohio several weeks ago, Bromfield has been literally swamped by reminiscences of boyhood scenes and associates. He tells of them in tomorrow's issue of the paper.

He writes of the people he knew, many of whom are gone now and of the familiar faces he has sighted in his trips to Mansfield in the last three weeks. The author and his family are located temporarily in Oberlin.

Death and Destruction—Where 23 Met Death in Train-Bus Crash

Death and destruction were scattered along the right of way near Salt Lake City when a school bus carrying 40 high school pupils was crushed at a grade crossing during a snowstorm by a fast freight train on the Rio Grande & Western railway. There were 23 dead and many seriously injured, so that it was feared the toll would mount. The bus was torn in two, and the front part carried on the pilot of the locomotive for hundreds of feet before the train could be brought to a stop.

ITALY'LL FIGHT, FRANCE WARNED

Paper Follows Demands for Colonies With Statement Troops Would March.

(By United Press)

ROME—The authoritative Giornale D'Italia announced today that "the Italian nation is ready to march against France if necessary." The newspaper frequently reflects the views of Premier Benito Mussolini.

The newspaper declaration coincided with a sudden strain on relations between Italy and France because of Italian demands for colonies at the expense of France, as expressed by the shouts of Italian deputies on Thursday for "Tunisia, Corsica, Nice."

France protested the demonstration and asked Italy for an

ICE WON'T STAY

Rain, Warmer Weather Due, Says Forecast.

Mansfielders skidded to work this morning on icy streets and sidewalks, but a forecast of rain and warmer weather for tonight and Saturday promised to make the ice vanish.

Despite the slippery streets and highways, not a major accident was reported. City buses were running behind schedule, however, and a number of minor automobile mishaps were reported.

Cars and trucks were unable to climb the South Main street hill without chains.

The ice formed when the temperature dropped below freezing during a light rain. Lowest temperature last night was 28 degrees, and at noon today the mercury had climbed to 33.

Freed By 2 Kidnapers, Girl Tells of Torture

Held Prisoner For 30 Hours, Thrown From Truck Near Home.

(By United Press)

OXON HILL, Md.—Police were puzzled today by the story of an 18-year-old girl who returned to her parents' home 30 hours after her sister reported her kidnaped, with her clothes torn to shreds.

Hundreds of policemen and possemen had continued a constant watch on the roads leading into this suburb of the national capital, but the girl, Mary Brown, daughter of a government employe, said that the three men who kidnaped her had driven through this cordon to release her a mile and a half from the Browns' farm home.

William B. Brown, father of the girl said today she was abducted by men who mistakenly thought he could pay a ransom.

When his daughter, convinced the men that he was unable to pay any ransom, he said, they released her.

SPEEDS CHECKS

Auditor Hurries Pension Aid for 112,000 Ohioans.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Ohio's 112,000 old age pension recipients today seemed assured of their November pension checks by next week after the U. S. treasury in Washington announced it would receive certification in a day or two of two $1,300,000 grants from the Social Security fund.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson said he would keep his staff working Saturday and Sunday getting the vouchers out if the grant was received today. He added that at least two days' time will be necessary to get the checks in the mail.

The Social Security board decided to end its controversy with Governor Davey and put the state back on the approved list after Robert C. Goodwin, representative of the board, completed a survey of the state administration of old age assistance. The state lost $1,700,000, the October payment, however, by the prolonged disagreement.

LAUNCH TRAIN, BUS CRASH QUIZ

Authorities Hear Stories of Trainmen; Toll Stands at 23 Dead, 16 Injured.

(By Associated Press)

SALT LAKE CITY—(AP)—With the death of a youth early today, toll of the nation's worst school bus-train disaster rose to 23 identified victims.

Sixteen youths, all occupants of the crowded bus that was hit 10 miles south of here yesterday by a speeding freight train roaring through an early-morning snowstorm, were injured, three critically.

Salt Lake General hospital authorities said one badly mangled body remained unidentified. However, morgue attendants said it was possible the mangled form was part of one or several of the identified children.

"The remains are complete enough to represent one or even two bodies and we shall have to regard them as a separate entity until we are positive more children were not killed," said one morgue worker.

Cleveland Goes 18 Days Without Fatal Traffic Mishap.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Two deaths today snapped Cleveland's streak of 18 days without a traffic fatality.

The dead were Louis Schneider, 62, and Martin Beck, 59. Each was fatally injured when he stepped from the curb into the path of a moving automobile.

The traffic toll here now stands at 114, as compared with 223 at this date last year. Cleveland is making a concerted drive to gain the National Safety Council award for the large city that cuts its accident rate by the largest percentage.

LINER DAMAGED

LE HAVRE, France—(AP)—The United States liner President Harding was thrown against a jetty by a heavy wind as she entered port early today after a voyage from New York and was so damaged that she was put in dry dock.

Although the damage was estimated at about $10,000, it was sufficient to hold up the 13,869-ton liner for repairs.

Ohio Youth Born Without Arms Shows Judge How He Can Drive

(By United Press)

XENIA—Given a practical demonstration that Paul Layton, 21, born without arms, can drive an automobile, Common Pleas Judge George H. Smith today had before him the question of whether the young man should be given a driver's license.

Paul, an Osborn farmer, wanted to prove that he could drive an automobile as well as the average motorist. So he took Judge Smith and representatives of the attorney general's office for a 30-minute ride.

The test was arranged by Layton's attorney, Morris D. Rice, in connection with his appeal from the refusal of Frank West, state motor vehicle registrar, to renew his driver's license on the ground of "physical disabilities."

Layton had testified that he had been driving since he was 14, and that he had been granted a driver's license without question for two years prior to Sept. 30.

He put on slippers, propped himself in the driver's seat, and took the judge for a drive around the city. To sign a temporary driving permit authorized by the court, he took off his socks and signed with his toes.

Judge Smith postponed a decision in Layton's suit against West, giving opposing counsel an opportunity to submit briefs.

WHAT FILLS A YULE BASKET? THREE DANCERS

And Muster-Cheers Hope to Prepare Baskets for 400 Needy Families in City.

MACHINERY ALL SET UP

Tickets Go Out Tomorrow for Christmas Ball Dec. 19 at Big Coliseum.

Dance That Others May Eat on Christmas Day . . .

It's a paraphrase of Walter Winchell's famous slogan, but it exactly fits the purpose of the Christmas Ball, which will be given on Dec. 19 at the Coliseum so that several hundred unfortunate families may have a big Christmas dinner.

For every three individuals who dance, there will be one Christmas basket paid for. And the basket will go to a family that otherwise would not have a Christmas dinner.

Need Still Great.

Never has there been greater need for remembering the needy at Christmas than this year, and heading the list are those families that are not on relief, but who are struggling along on an insufficient income.

The Three Muster-Cheers will compile a list of more than 400 names of families, the needs of all of which will be personally verified by a committee made up of Adjutant David Brown of the Salvation Army, Scout Executive Floyd Dent of the Boy Scouts; and Mrs. Elmer Post, chairman of the Welfare committee of the Federation of Women. No family will be placed on the Christmas list that isn't approved by the committee.

How You Can Help.

Funds to fill the baskets will come from individual contributions and the profits from the Christmas ball. Last year the Three Muster-Cheers raised more than $1,500. That money was spent for food. In addition there were several thousand cans of food contributed by Mansfield club women and taken in at the "can matinees" at the theaters.

Clubs and church classes who contributes food this year are asked to call the Muster-Cheers' office, Canal 3661, when their collection is ready.

Tickets for the Christmas Ball, which replaces the annual midnight show and is the only money-making project of the Christmas organization this year, will be distributed for sale tomorrow.

BALL CLUB HERE?

Toledo Attorney Takes Option on Mansfield Entry.

Mansfield may return as a member of the Ohio State league next year with a Toledo attorney operating the club with major league affiliation, it was learned here today following a meetng of the circuit held in Fostoria last night.

Norman Cohen, Toledo attorney, attended the meeting last night and took an option on the franchise forfeited by the Boston Red Sox, who operated the pennant-winning Mansfield club in 1937. He said he was financially able to install lights for night baseball in Mansfield, according to a United Press dispatch.

Inability of the daylight baseball to attract crowds cost Mansfield its franchise in the circuit. Boston refused to return this year because of the heavy losses suffered in 1937.

Twins With Only One Body Die

MOSCOW—(AP)—Irina and Galina, Moscow's strange twin sisters, died of pneumonia today.

The baby girls had two heads, two pairs of arms and two backbones but only one body from the chest down. They were one year and 22 days old.

From the time they were six weeks old they had been in the All-Union Institute of Experimental Medicine, objects of scientific research.

The body was given to anatomists for further study and the brains to the brain institute.

FIVE PROPOSED FOR CITY PARK BOARD PLACES

Groups Recommend Two More When Mayor Balks at List Bearing Only 3 Names.

The names of five potential candidates for appointment to the newly-created city park board were before Mayor Claude M. Hunter today—after he had refused to consider a previous recommendation that contained only three names—one for each of the positions on the proposed board.

The five names were submitted by a committee representing the Chamber of Commerce, Mansfield Public Parks association and the garden clubs of the city.

The first list, containing only three names, was submitted yesterday afternoon.

On receiving the list, Mayor Hunter refused to consider the recommendations, since only three appointments are to be made to the board, the creation of which was authorized by popular vote in the Nov. 8 election. He insisted that the committee submit at least two more names.

Represent Three Groups.

The recommendations were delivered by Oliver C. Henkel, Harry M. Bowman and Joseph A. Geiger, the mayor said. The three represented the organizations which had made the recommendations.

"I told them," the mayor said today, "that their recommendation of only three persons for three posts put me in a difficult position—actually 'put me on the spot.' If I named the three they recommended, I would be laying myself open to criticism on the grounds that outside groups were in effect dictating city appointments.

"Therefore, I refused to consider their recommendations unless they submitted two more names.

"Naturally, I want to give these interested groups proper consideration, since they were interested in creating a park board from the very beginning of the undertaking. I shall take their suggestions under consideration, and shall probably not make the appoint-

OWN A DOG? IT'S TAG TIME AGAIN

Auditor Puts Licenses on Sale, Urges Early Shopping.

It's time to buy your dog a tag again.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe placed the 1939 tags on sale today, urging dog owners to "shop early" for the tags to avoid the usual last-minute rush before the deadline in January.

There's no change in the price of tags this year, the auditor said. For male dogs and spayed females, tags cost a dollar. The price is $3 for females.

The auditor sold approximately 5,000 tags last year and expected to distribute an equal number this year.

Name of '39 Tyger Captain To Be Announced At Banquet

Rich Nagle's successor to the captaincy of next fall's Mansfield high school football team will be revealed at the banquet to be tendered the Tygers by The News-Journal at the Mansfield-Leland hotel at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday.

The precedent of announcing the captain at the banquet was inaugurated at the first News-Journal affair and it has been followed ever since.

Coach J. R. Murphy said today that the selection of the new captain will be made by ballot by lettermen Monday and the results of the polls will not be released until the night of the banquet.

Letters will also be awarded to the Tygers who won them in the 1938 season, at the banquet. Murphy will make the presentation.

Virtually all arrangements for the banquet have now been completed. Don Peden, Ohio University coach, will be the principal speaker and Inwood Smith, who won all-America recognition at Ohio State in 1935, will serve as toastmaster.

Only a limited number of reservations remain on sale for the banquet. They may be purchased at the business office of The News-Journal, Senior high school, Tawse Pharmacy and Bates Candy shop. The price is $1.55, tax included.

WORKMEN FIND BODY LYING ON SIDEWALK

Methodist Churchman's Son Says He 'Can't Remember' What Happened in Home.

BLOOD IN PARSONAGE

Find Stains in Three Rooms After Discovery of Body Three Blocks Away.

BULLETIN

CHILLICOTHE —(INS Prosecutor Lester S. Reid, of Ross county, declared that Robert Bready, 29-year-old self-styled soldier of fortune and former inmate of a Toledo institution for the insane will be charged with slaying his 62-year-old father.

(By Associated Press)

BAINBRIDGE — Dr. Russell H. Bready, about 60, Methodist minister in this town of 800 and former Pontiac, Mich., mayor, was found slain here early today.

Shot in the temple, Dr. Bready's body was found crumpled on a sidewalk about two blocks from the Methodist parsonage.

Sheriff Joseph Vincent of Ross county ordered Dr. Bready's 29-year-old son, Robert, an accountant, detained for questioning.

Find Blood Stains.

Marshal Earl Edington of Bainbridge said that blood was found in the downstairs of the parsonage and in three upstairs rooms. An automatic pistol was found under a pillow in a bedroom.

Young Bready, when questioned by Marshal Edington and Deputy Sheriff Don Lowery, said that he couldn't remember a thing since last night when he was sitting beside a radio drinking.

Lowery said a bottle of apple wine was found in the parsonage.

Taken to view his father's body, the son said simply:

"Father's dead."

Heard Four Shots.

Neighbors said they heard shots fired about 5 a. m., but they differed on the number. Clement Moore said he heard four shots.

Edington said when he reached the parsonage he learned that young Bready had been telephoning residents of Bainbridge inquiring the whereabouts of his father.

Ed Shoemaker, a WPA worker of Bainbridge, and Lou Timmons discovered the body as they were en route to work.

Coroner R. E. Oliver said that Dr. Bready, who was prominent throughout southern and central Ohio as a speaker, had been shot only once, but that his nose had been badly disfigured.

Young Bready returned to Bainbridge a year ago and told neigh-

Wife Took $4,300, Sent to Prison, All for Husband.

CHICAGO—(INS)—In the habit of doing everything else for her husband, Mrs. Hazel H. Cornwall, 28, today was ready to go to prison for him.

Mrs. Cornwall was sentenced to one to ten years behind bars for embezzling $4,300 from the State Bank in Western Springs where she had been a teller.

She had refused to tell why she took the money. Investigation by the state's attorney's office, however, disclosed she did it for her husband, Francis.

Cornwall didn't like to work himself, the prosecutor found, but he liked the nice things of life and complained about not being able to get them on his wife's $90 a month salary.

Since his wife's arrest Cornwall has disappeared.

CLAIMS EXPOSE WILL ROUT REDS FROM UNIONISM

Dies Says Communism Less Threatening Following Testimony at Inquiry.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Chairman Dies (D) of Texas of the house unAmerican activities committee today predicted that labor unions will "clean out Communists" as a result of exposures made by his committee.

Dies' prediction followed testimony given yesterday by Homer Martin, president of the CIO United Automobile Workers union, in which he told of his struggle against Communist control

"Communism is less of a threat in the labor movement than it was as a result of the expose made by reliable witnesses before our committee and in other ways," said Dies.

"I think responsible labor leaders will be forced by public sentiment to clean up bad situations. I am certain that the overwhelming majority of members of labor unions are against Communism

Tells of Progress.

"Communists had made considerable progress in the unions in the heavy industries. They never succeeded in making much headway with craft unions.

"We have exposed the efforts of Communists to gain control of key positions in labor unions and exploit them to their own ends. The testimony of Homer Martin corroborated other testimony.

"All witnesses before our committee agree on the essential facts, union leaders as well as those accused of being labor spies Testimony of some witnesses put into the Communist ranks by the American Legion to get information is fully borne out by active officers in unions. They also are in agreement as to 95 per cent of the names of Communists active in the labor movement."

Homer Martin, who testified before the Dies committee under subpoena, took a fling at the committee as he left. Martin asserted that the committee had been used for political purposes against Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan, that it had heard "screwball" witnesses and had been unfair

The Dies committee, in recess today, will turn tomorrow to activities of Communists in Oregon. Witnesses are expected to detail activities of Harry Bridges, CIO maritime union leader on the west coast, in the many maritime strikes in Portland.

RENEWS RURAL SCHOOL MOVE

Superintendent to Meet With Boards to Consider Merger of Three Districts.

County Superintendent Boyd Robinson indicated today that a meeting of school boards in three rural districts in the northern part of the county probably will be called early in January to consider consolidation of the districts as a move to obtain a new centralized school.

Two attempts to get a bond issue approved for a new school in the Union rural district (Weller and Franklin townships) have failed, and Robinson said school officials in the districts are of the opinion that a larger area must be included in the voting district if a bond issue is to be passed.

He said the districts proposed for consolidation are Butler township, part of Bloominggrove township and all of Weller and Franklin townships. Those districts include 10 one-room schools and two two-room schools.

"It is apparent that voters in the Union district are too well pleased with their present school set-up to vote any changes now," Supt. V. B. Moffett of the Union schools asserted. Moffett has been a leader in the move to obtain a bond issue and PWA grant for a proposed $138,000 school in the Union district. A proposal for a $75,900 bond issue was defeated twice.

"By consolidating the districts under the proposed set-up, the cost of a building project per person would be reduced and the school boards would be complying with a request of the state department of education for elimination of one-room schools," Robinson said.

Throws Tomatoes At Wigged Judges In London Court

LONDON—(AP)—A disappointed litigant stood up today in the august court of appeals and bombarded two bewigged lord justices with tomatoes.

He missed but the justices, Sir Charles Clauson and Sir Rayner Goddard, gave him six weeks in prison for gross contempt of court.

Earlier in the morning the litigant, Frank Harrison, had been refused an appeal for a new trial in a minor county court in an action in which he was involved.

He departed muttering After a while he returned, his coat bulging strangely.

As the lord justices arose for luncheon, Harrison stood up in the back of the courtroom and shouted, "I want justice!"

Then he began pulling tomatoes from under his coat and opened fire.

Neither justice was hit but one overripe missile squashed against the woodwork just over the Hon. Mr. Justice Clauson's wig.

FILE DEMURRER IN TAX SUITS

County Officials Hold Court Has No Jurisdiction Over Personal Tax Actions.

County Treasurer John E. Kolb and Auditor Norman L. Wolfe filed demurrers today in four personal tax suits against them and the owners and executors of four large properties and estates in the Mansfield area.

The demurrers contend that the common pleas court has no jurisdiction over the actions which seek to determine how much personal tax was paid on the properties from 1926 to 1930. The county officials who were made party defendants in the suits also contend that amended petitions filed in the cases fail to state facts to show cause of action.

The original suits, filed by Michael Hallabrin, Mansfield, as a taxpayer, were against J. A. Rigby; the Citizens National Bank and Trust company as executor of the estate of Burton K. Preston, deceased; Harry S. Black, and Donald S. Black and others as executors of the estate of the late Frank Black.

The county officials were named in amended petitions after the court halted inspection of county tax books by attorneys for Hallabrin.

Hearings on the motion to gain access to tax records have been set for Dec. 19 before Judge C. H. Huston.

650 HEAR 2ND TALK ON HITLER

People Will Be With Him So Long as He Controls Army, Says Mrs. Fuldheim.

An estimated 650 persons assembled at the Central Methodist Episcopal church last night to hear Dorothy Fuldheim lecture on "Man or Beast?" As she did yesterday noon, when she spoke before the Mansfield Federation of Women, Mrs. Fuldheim quoted at length from speeches and writings of Field Marshal Herman Goering and Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda.

"Hitler is divine, and to question him is treason. He alone is the law, Mrs. Fuldheim said in quoting from the two Nazi leaders.

In reply to questions regarding the people's attitude toward Hitler, Mrs. Fuldheim, who was introduced by E. D. Gibson, president of Brinkerhoff Parent-Teacher association, sponsoring organization, said, "As long as the army is back of any dictator, the people are with him."

"Our old gods are dying," Mrs. Fuldheim told her audience, "The banners of peace and brotherhood are flying at half-mast, and Hitler has been deified by the Nazi program."

In conclusion the speaker plead for an ever high and more sustaining type of democracy, telling her audience how happy we should be to be Americans and live in a land of free speech, freedom of the press, and religious freedom.

An open question forum followed the lecture which was the same address she had given earlier in the day. Zane Wilson, program chairman of the Brinkerhoff P. T. A., was in charge of the program and he was assisted by Ray Jenkins and L. F. Rondel.

New Britain, Conn., Good, Too

OUT there in California the boys figure that Notre Dame will apply the pressure against U. S. C. Saturday. An impressive victory by the Irish will make the coast's Rose Bowl unimportant in the determining of national champion. . . . It has just leaked out that the reason Duke was selected over Tennessee for the Pasadena Jan. 2 game was because the Vols have one more game to play. The Trojans couldn't afford to take a chance of their opponent being beaten. . . . Thanks to liberalized forward passing rules, a decided swing toward the offense was revealed in a survey conducted by the Associated Press. This was the biggest scoring season since 1931.

JIMMY DYKES

Jimmy Dykes will set one record and discard another as soon as the 1939 season opens. He will be beginning his sixth year as the White Sox pilot, the longest an American league manager ever lasted in Chicago, and he will retire from active duty after 21 years, leaving Ossie Bluege of Washington as the dean of the circuit. . . . A golf pro maintains that only 10 per cent of them break even or better in the winter tournaments. The other 90 per cent pay the freight. . . . New Britain, Conn., high, unbeaten and untied this season, has lost only four games in its last 45 football starts.

Did you know that Duke university, which goes to the Rose Bowl, once was known as Trinity college? . . . After Johnny Kilbane, who made lots of friends here last spring while assisting in a parole probe at the reformatory, beat Abe Attel in San Francisco in 1912 for the world's featherweight boxing title, according to a Cleveland paper, "100,000 people massed themselves on streets and sidewalks of the city to give the little Irish fighter a greater welcome than the city ever accorded a president of the United States, or any other man."

There is a report that several of the freshmen who figured in the scholarship-tuition row at Pitt recently will transfer to other schools, among these being Ohio State. . . . Lou Nova, a blond 23-year-old boy from Alameda, Cal., will be our next heavyweight champion, they're saying.

Four members of the Original Waterloo Wonders have been corraled by Joe Donnelly for his Columbus Athletic Supply cage club, with Bill Hoaket, late of Ohio State, as coach. . . . Billy Evans and Dewey Stover were Mansfield visitors this week. Evans came down from Cleveland to dissolve the Mansfield baseball company which operated the 1937 team in the Ohio State league. Dewey came over from Tiffin to renew old friendships. Whether Dewey will return to Moultrie next year is doubtful.

Steve Phillips Rigs Up New Device for Track.

SID FEDER ADDS. Can it be those eastern schools, who turned down Cotton Bowl bids, were just a leetle bit scared of what that very tough Texas Tech outfit might do to their reputations? . . . Paul Derringer is sinking more of his Cincinnati Reds' pay into Florida real estate. . . . Building cottages near Sarasota now. . . . Around the football world, you don't hear many raves about Oklahoma's passing—so let's tip you off that Hugh McCullough pitched 61 complete in 93 tries, for 537 yards. . . . Better keep your eye on him, Tennessee. . . .

Steve Phillips, the Grand Circuit judge, has just finished rigging up a swell device for keeping trotting horses in line going around the track. . . . Got the idea from the movie newsreel camera cars, no less. . . . How come the feature writers have missed a bet on John Villipigue, a Camden (S. C.) man who's been coaching the local high schoolers in his spare time just for the fun of it—won't take a dime pay. . . . And the kids who play his boys will tell you they're a mixture of the "Suzy Q, the razzle dazzle and the jitterbug' . . .

Tygers Lift Lid On Shelby Court Tonight

Ringside Cafe Rolls 3052 for New Record; Herrick Breaks Individual Mark With 760

Willis Finishes Only Three Pins Behind Mark Setter as He Threatens Single Game Standard.

THREE new season records were hung up in the most spectacular night of bowling in the Commercial B league at the Meder alleys last night. And, incidentally, all of the new marks were registered in the same match.

The Ringside Cafe, which took three tilts from the Burghardt Cafe, rolled a new three-game record with a 3052 total and added another new mark with a middle 1100 score. The Cafe started with a 969 and finished with a 983.

The other new standard was rolled by Chris Herrick of the Burghardt team, who spilled 760 pins. He accounted for scores of 236, 268 and 256.

Rolls 289 Game.

Freddy Willis of the Ringside quintet came within three pins of tying Herrick. His string featured a 289 game, which is only one pin short of the record held by Wayne Hursh. Willis started out with a 257 and closed with a 211.

Jim Dunn rolled the third highest three-game total of the season when he came through with a 688. He contributed games of 232, 221 and 235 to the hefty Ringside total.

The Satterlee Restaurant five regained first place by taking three games from the Ohio Public Service club, but the feature of last night's bowling was the heavy scoring.

Harold Lemunyon came through with a 657 total as he led the Heilman Grocers to a pair of wins over the Office Cafe to enable the Satterlee club to go in front. He put together games of 205, 237 and 215. Joe Daum had shot a 600 for the Cafe.

C. J. Jones, with a 617, and Carl Heilman, 616, paced the Mansfield Printers to a 2884 total and a pair of wins over the Mansfield Rugs, opening with a 1057. Halsey Hipp was high for the Rugs with a 616.

Lose One by Pin.

The Kochheiser Sports whipped up a 2802, but won only one game from the Shelby Cycles, losing the last tilt by one pin. They opened with a 1017.

The Yuncker Sports won three games from Met's Auto Supplies in the other match.

Thelma Linster Sets New Record.

THELMA LINSTER established a new season record in the Women's bowling league last night when she cracked the formation for a nifty 590 total from games of 174, 205 and 211.

Despite the high score, the Richland Printers lost two games to Harvey's Sample Shoes.

Shelley's Candies added two wins at the expense of the Moderne Beauty Salon, despite a 205 and 528 by Sophia Meder. Mary McMullen rolled a 506 as she led the Morgan Dry Cleaners to a sweep over the Office Cafe.

Wahlberg, Mephisto Top Card

Tangle Tonight in Main Bout in Armory Ring.

THE second professional wrestling program of the indoor season will be offered mat fans at the Armory at 8:30 tonight. Headlining the card will be a two-fall, one hour time limit match between Whitey Wahlberg of Duluth, Minn., and The Great Mephisto. Both are contenders for the light-heavyweight championship and are tremendously popular.

WAHLBERG

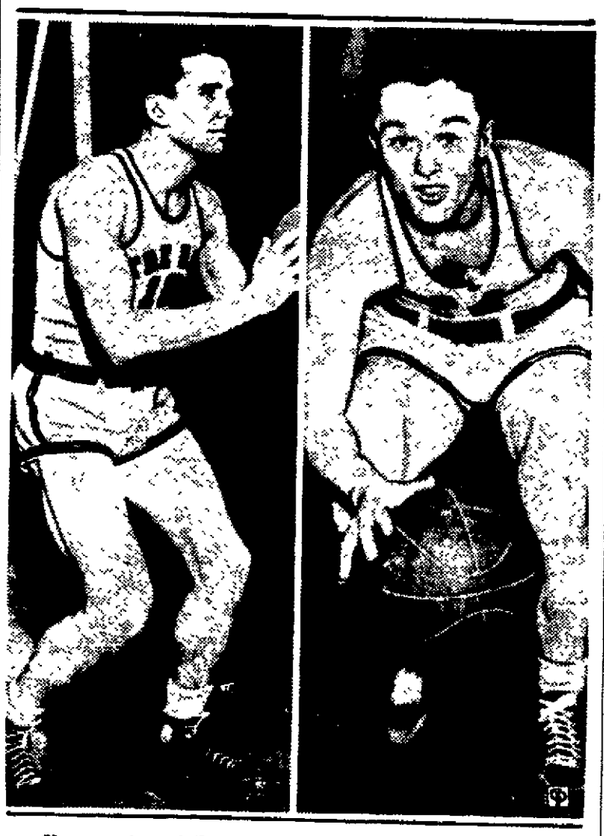
Wahlberg's great strength will be matched against Mephisto's speed in deciding the outcome. The former is considered to be one of the division's outstanding slam artists, while the perennially popular Mephisto is well-known in this vicinity for his devastating "pile-driver" hold.

Rattan Meets Vangler.

Another featured attraction on tonight's bill sends Everett "Silent" Rattan, deaf mute from Indianapolis, against Sammy Vangler, now making his home in Wheeling, W. Va. The latter has shown amazing technique in breaking holds. Rattan, formerly a welterweight, has added a bit of poundage in recent months. This has proven a decided advantage to his cause.

Opening the program will be the one fall, 30 minute time limit bout between Bill Christy, California, and the Black Panther, well-rated colored light-heavy from Vicksburg, Miss. Popular prices will prevail.

Carry Irish Hopes On Court



Here are two of the reasons why Notre Dame is expected to be strong on the court again this season. At the left is Earl Brown, captain and guard, who also plays an end on the grid squad. Eddie Sadowski, right, is a forward. The Irish open their season with Wisconsin Dec. 10.

Rose Bowl Series Rest With Faculty

CHICAGO—(AP)—Whether the Western conference champions and the Pacific coast titleholders should meet annually in the Rose Bowl rested today upon Big Ten faculty representatives.

Representatives of the Western conference schools were engrossed with schedule making yesterday. There was no mention of any alteration of the rule which closes the conference football schedule on the Saturday before Thanksgiving—an alteration which would make a Rose Bowl contest between the two conference champions possible.

Several Big Ten coaches favor the idea and the possibility remained that the suggestion would come before the meeting of faculty representatives today. Ohio State was scheduled for six football league games in 1942.

Cuemen Open Title Defense With Victory

Turn Back Cigars, 33 to 24, on Inaugural Bill.

The Rex Billiards successfully opened their defense of the Senior Class A league title last night when they turned back the Musille Cigars, 33 to 24, in an exciting game that topped the opening bill at the Friendly House.

Trailing 16 to 11 at the intermission, the Billiards, led by Richards, overtook the Cigars midway in the third period, and did not trail again, although their foe threatened continually.

Richards added 13 points to lead the Billiards in the final half. Boyd was high for the Cigars with nine.

Free throws in the last two minutes gave the Blue Goose Sohioans a 32 to 29 victory over the Miller Dairys in the opening game. The Sohioans broke a 15-15 tie at the half by going ahead 25 to 19 in the third period, but the Dairys did not admit defeat until the charity tosses decided the decision in the fading minutes.

Willard Lockard paced the Blue Goose entry with a dozen points. Phelps and Jim Heiser scored nine and eight, respectively, for the losers.

In the middle game, Augustine's Canfield Station was forced to the limit to take a one-point 22 to 21 triumph over the Raemelton Farm. The Oilmen held one-point leads at the half and end of the third frame. They retained this margin in the final quarter.

Coast Tussle Heads Program

95,000 Expected to See Irish Face Trojans.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Notre Dame, Tennessee and Oklahoma football teams put their perfect records on the line tomorrow in the 1938 season finale.

Notre Dame, top-ranking candidate for mythical national championship honors, meets an improving University of Southern California club at Los Angeles and a crowd of 95,000 was forecast. They were betting 8 to 5, or giving seven points at even money, that Elmer Layden's Irish will score their ninth consecutive victory.

Tennessee, which meets Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl at Miami, Jan. 2, was a slight favorite over a powerful Mississippi team that has bowed only to Vanderbilt.

Duke and Texas Christian, the other members of the perfect "big five," concluded their regular seasons last week and won "bowl" nominations. Duke got the prize package, a spot opposite Southern California in the Rose Bowl, while T. C. U. will tackle Carnegie Tech in New Orleans' Sugar Bowl.

Whippet Team Promises Test

Rudolph, Herpich Receive Starting Assignments; Prelim Game Scheduled at 7 P. M.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

COACH RUSS MURPHY will unveil his new basketball edition of Mansfield high school on the Shelby hardwood tonight.

What the new season promises followers of the high school athletic teams in the way of victories remains to be seen, but, with eight lettermen back, the outlook appears promising, despite the adoption of the toughest schedule ever booked for a Tyger quintet.

Johnny Hailabrin and Elmer Dials are the only absentees from the 1937-38 team which advanced to the state tournament last spring, and Murphy has discovered promising replacements in the reserve ranks.

In fact, two of the posts in tonight's starting lineup will be filled by members of last season's reserve squad.

Rudolph at Forward.

Gene Rudolph, who finished last season as a member of the varsity, will be teamed with Tommy Scott at the forwards. Bill Herpich will be making his debut as a varsity man tonight, and he and Jack Lyons will hold down the guard positions.

Dave Shelley has been converted from a forward into a center as an experiment, and he has shown up exceedingly well at the position. His chances to remain at the pivot post depends on the development of Jack Dugger, Harold Gallagher and Russ Beer, other center candidates, and the showing of Rudolph at a forward.

Herpich also faces a battle to keep a grip on a steady guard job. Ike Smith and Rich Nagle are just a couple of guard candidates who promise Herpich a fight.

Rudolph has been given the preference at a starting forward post because of his uncanny basket eye. His ability to score may make it difficult to dislodge him if he can hold up his end on the defense. Herpich's defensive play has been outstanding in drills.

The Tygers face a team in Shelby which promises to be a factor in this year's N. C. O. conference race. Shelby will be represented by a veteran and fairly rangy club, with Joe Miller and Bob Fireoved the mainstays.

Probable Lineup.

It is likely that Assistant Coach Arlo Willett, who is handling the Whippets in the absence of Bill Query, will start Bill Yosick and Bob Fireoved at the forwards. Ralph Cline, a new discovery, at center, and Miller and Bob Stevens at the guards. Query has been in Cleveland receiving treatments for an eye ailment.

A preliminary game is scheduled to get under way at 7 p. m. It will pit Assistant Coach Harry Mehock's reserves against the Shelby seconds.

NAVY DENIES REPORT

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—(U.P.)—Athletic department officials denied today that the U. S. Naval academy would return to civilian coaching for its football team. An official said "a naval officer will be head coach next year. All this talk of a big time civilian coach is emphatically denied."

Maidens of Galion Wins Center Post on All-Ohio Eleven

Bliss Placed On Second Club

Harmon and Wilkins of Madison, Lehr of Mansfield Get Honorable Mention In A-P Selection.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Out of the more than 15,000 youngsters playing football in Ohio's high schools, there emerged today the first annual Associated Press all-Ohio scholastic squad—the top-flight stars selected with the aid of expert opinion offered by sports writers and coaches.

Boasting a line averaging 186 from end to end, and a backfield of passing and punting ball-toters stacking up at a 166-pound average, the first string is really the realization of a coach's dream.

The ends are six feet three inches tall, pass-snatchers de luxe and fine defensive men.

Tackles Weigh 200.

The tackles, each a six-footer weighing nearly 200, have the power to open holes, towering defensive strength, and speed to handle down-field assignments.

The guards, each five feet nine, have the speed necessary to knife through opposing lines, or draw out to help the interference. The center, a rugged fighting type, was heralded as the best pass defense pivot man in the scholastic brigade.

Behind that wall is Hillis Hume of Alliance at quarterback, the only junior to make the team. At halfbacks are Tony Wolodzko of Elyria and Al Hoover of Toledo Scott, with Vince Snyder, captain of the Massillon Tigers, at fullback.

That backfield has everything, speed, power, elusiveness, passing and kicking skill, defensive strength, and brains.

Here's what the coaches and sports writers had to say about the first stringers:

Ends: Clyde Redding of Portsmouth—fine pass-catcher, brilliant defensive player, vicious blocker, high-ranking student; Nick Roman of Canton McKinley—chief cog in Bulldog defense, three-year star, fine pass-receiver, good student.

Tackles: James Anders, Sandusky—fast charger and good blocker; best of great line which did not allow a point from scrimmage; Eugene Young, Hamilton—most of Hamilton's points made through holes he opened; good defensive player.

Guards: Lynn Houston, Massillon—outstanding defensive player on Tiger team. Never saw a game until he played opener in 1937, but hasn't missed since; Harry Hyde, Warren—smartest lineman at Warren in years; small, but specializes in breaking through to toss runners for loss.

Center: Lawrence Maidens, Galion—one of big reasons Galion was undefeated. Averaged three pass interceptions per game. Strong offensive player and good student.

Backs: Hillis Hume, Alliance—a smart general, good kicker and passer, and exceptional runner; scored 144 points, and was only player able to score twice against Canton McKinley. Al Hoover, Toledo Scott—best back in Toledo; fine runner and line plunger, top-notch blocker and defensive man, and top-flight student. Tony Wolodzko of Elyria—triple-threat star of first water, endorsed unanimously by coaches and writers who saw him in action. Vince Snyder of Massillon—captain of state championship claimants; served as blocking back two years, but carried ball this season to lead team in scoring; called signals from fullback berth; high-ranking student.

Harmon Unplaced.

Backing up that array of talent are players from everywhere named to the second and third teams and honorable mention lists. So numerous were the backs playing tough schedules that no place on the first three teams could be found for Gene Harmon of Mansfield Madison, the state's high scorer. Others rated high in their sections were relegated to lower berths when measured by the state-wide yardstick and the "tough opponents" rule.

One thing is certain. It was as difficult to win a place on the 1938 Associated Press all-Ohio team as for a college star to win a berth on the all-America. Ohio has as many boys playing high school football as there are on the major college teams throughout the country.

COX DISQUALIFIED

CAMDEN, N. J.—Gino Vagnonne, 210, Joliet, Ill., defeated Joe Cox, 228, Kansas City. (Cox disqualified for hitting referee after one fall each).

GUS FINS FOE

HARTFORD, Conn. — Gus Sonnenberg, 214, Boston, pinned Bob "Rebel" Russell, 210, Texas, (two straight falls).

Farrell, Miner On Elks Club

Play With Quintet to Be Piloted by Jerry King.

AROUND three veterans—Tom Farrell, Jack Miner and Bob Charles—who were members of the great Yuncker Sports club last season, Pilot Jerry King of the Elks Lodge entry will endeavor to build a quintet expected to develop into a serious contender for the City Class A basketball league championship.

In Farrell, towering center, who ran off with the honors in the individual scoring race last year, and Miner and Charles, a pair of the league's outstanding guards, King should have the hub for a winning ball team.

Face Westinghouse Team.

King's cagers will get their first taste of City league competition of the 1938-39 season when they face the Westinghouse Electric outfit in the second game of the opening program at Mansfield high Monday night at 8:30 o'clock.

Two newcomers in Mansfield amateur basketball circles will make their first appearance with the Elkmen Monday night. They are Bob Cruikshank and Libby Guttman. Cruikshank is a former Cleveland amateur player.

In addition to these four King will have several other City league players to round out the roster.

Gene Zediker, Adam Brandt and Harry Wineland are the remaining players making up the squad. Zediker is an erstwhile Mansfield high star, while Brandt, who saw service with the Elks last year, and Wineland, have had several seasons of City league experience.

Probable Lineup.

Although King has not announced his starting five, it will probably lineup with Brandt and Zediker at the forward posts, Farrell at center, and Charles and Miner at the guards.

The league raises the curtain on its season at 7:30 p. m. Monday with a tilt between the Herrick Hi-Speeds and Yuncker Sports. The officials have announced opening night as "ladies' night," the first ever held by the circuit.

Set Deadline For Showdown

Pitt Frosh Demand Answer to Alleged Promises.

PITTSBURGH—(U.P.)—The athletic controversy at the University of Pittsburgh was intensified today as freshman football stars set a "dealine" for an answer to their demand for a showdown on tuition fees.

The yearling athletes, who claim to have been misled into signing $300 tuition notes, presented a list of alleged promises and understandings that "lured" them to enroll at the university. John Weber, secretary of the athletic department, indicated that the demanded showdown might be forthcoming Monday.

The athletes agreed to remain in school another week while the alumni association and other Pitt organizations complete investigations of the controversy which has threatened for several weeks to cripple future Panther football teams.

Last week the board of athletic trustees agreed to waive tuition fees for the current school year for players who believed they had signed notes that later would be "taken care of."

Wins Yuncker Game Contest

A feather 26 and a half inches in length was judged the winner in the Yuncker Bros. sports store pheasant tail feather contest which came to a close this week. James Huston of Shiloh entered the feather in the contest in which more than 300 were judged by a committee consisting of James V. Will, Al Fendrick and Oscar Ruhl.

Feathers entered by Harry Smith of Bellville and Charles Seaman of Shiloh were awarded second and third prizes. Hunting coats were the first and second prizes and a pair of boots third prize.

All feathers entered in the contest will be returned to owners if called for before Tuesday night, Leo Yuncker said today. Those not called for will be given away, he stated.

ADOPTS MOLDED BALL

COLUMBUS—(INS)—The molded basketball will be the regulation ball for the 1939 state high school basketball tournament, H. R. Townsend, state high school athletic commissioner, said today.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—George Washington University cagers will play five games this winter with Ohio teams: Dec. 10 at Ohio State; Dec. 23, Ohio University here; Jan. 30, Toledo here; Feb. 7, Western Reserve here; and Feb. 11, at Toledo.

Young Veteran

MOE ROBERTS

Players come and go, and the same holds true for managers and no sport is excluded, but there is one player in the International-American Hockey League who can look on the rest of them, managers included, as mere rookies.

He is Maurice (Moanin' Moe) Roberts, 32, the little black-thatched fellow who minds the net for Cleveland's Barons. Roberts is the only survivor of the original Canadian-American Hockey League, and is one of the few American born professional hockey players.

Dodds Invited To Sugar Bowl

ASHLAND — Ashland's Ohio conference cross country champion, Gilbert Dodds, has been invited to participate in the fourth annual Sugar Bowl track classic at New Orleans, La., on Jan. 1. Dodd's invitation to run in the two-mile race came from L. DiBenedetto, senior chairman of the Track committee for the Sugar Bowl classic.

It is almost certain that Dodds will accept the invitation. It is not known whether his trip will be financed by the college or by an outside group of persons interested in raising funds for the young runner's trip.

LEADING ISSUES FALTER UNDER LIGHT SELLING

Cloudier European Picture and Year-End Adjustments Are Factors in Slide.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Further light selling pushed leading stocks down fractions to around a point in today's market.

A cloudier European picture was a complicating market factor, brokers said. In addition more year-end adjustments for income tax purposes were seen as a stumbling block for recovery. Business news, on the whole, was not too discouraging.

Bethlehem Steel edged forward a trifle and U. S. Steel was about unchanged.

On the downside were Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Santa Fe, Kennecott, Dp Pont, North American and Boeing. Continental Motors was lively at a new year's high. Bonds and commodities were mixed.

Noted was the week-end survey of Dun & Bradstreet reporting a pickup in retail spending with demand stimulated by cold weather and the start of Christmas shopping.

After six consecutive weekly declines, commercial loans of New York City federal reserve member banks jumped $16,000,000 in the week ended Wednesday. Brokers' loans were up $3,000,000 in the week.

LAUNCH TRAIN, BUS CRASH QUIZ

Authorities Hear Stories of Trainmen; Toll Stands at 23 Dead, 16 Injured.

line, plowed into the loaded school bus near suburban Midvale, 10 miles south of Salt Lake City.

Engineer E. L. Rehmer, warned of the impending collision only an instant before the crash, applied the brakes but the heavy, 50-car train thundered a quarter-mile further, showering bodies and wreckage, before grinding to a stop.

The caboose halted at the point where the engine had struck, and soon weeping parents and classmates were carrying the injured into the caboose, out of the wet snow.

Rescue workers employed a dozen ambulances to hurry the injured to the hospital, then set about—in many cases with sacks and baskets—to gather up the scattered remnants of the dead and remove them to the hospital morgue.

"There the task of identifying the bodies was started.

All of the dead except the driver, 29-year-old Farrold H. Silcox of Riverton, and all of the injured were students at Jordan High school.

State and county authorities pressed investigations as to the cause of the tragedy. Survivors agreed Silcox observed the state law in bringing the bus to a complete stop before the crossing.

Marjorie Groves, 16, who escaped virtually unhurt, said snow covered the windows of the bus.

"No one saw the train coming at all," she said. "Mr Silcox had stopped the bus, and was just starting up again when it struck us."

Engineer Rehmer said:

"I couldn't see anything in front of me, because I was on the opposite side from the bus.

Fireman Shouts.

"My fireman, Alfred Enton, suddenly yelled 'big holer,' which means emergency—apply brakes immediately—and I did.

"I was blowing the whistle for the crossing at the time and had to let go the whistle and apply the brakes.

"We hit. Things began to fly pretty fast. I saw the hood of the truck on the engine. When I realized how serious the accident was, the bottom seemed to drop out of everything.

"I just know how the parents of those children must feel. I have a son and daughter and two grandsons myself.

"It is the worst thing that has happened to me in 35 years of railroading—the only accident I've ever had, and I've been running engines since October, 1907."

Bereaved relatives were making arrangements today for a mass funeral. The high school, its classes suspended upon word of the tragedy, remained closed, students and teachers too deeply shocked to return.

FORMER MAYOR DIES

STEUBENVILLE — (AP) — Funeral services will be held Saturday for Thomas W. Porter, 77, who served two terms as mayor and 26 years as city clerk, until illness forced his retirement last April.

Why the Rockettes Are So Good — It's All Done With Mirrors

Famous Gotham Dancers Watch Themselves In Looking Glass.

By JACK STINNET

NEW YORK—Here's a deep, dark secret about the most famous chorus of precision dancers in the world—

It's all done with mirrors.

I have it straight from the men behind the Rockettes — Russell Markert, director of the chorus and now producer of Music Hall shows, and Gene Snyder, co-director.

Every rehearsal day the 36 girls line up before a wall of mirrors and kick and tap out their routine until they can run it off in perfect unison.

"Rehearsing intricate precision routines before mirrors isn't the only factor, of course, but it's one of the most important," says Markert. "Letting the girls see themselves as others see them produces precision faster than any other training method.

"It is one thing to try to explain to a dancer how to correct an error in her routine; another to let her dance before a mirror with the rest of the chorus and actually get the feel of doing the step in perfect unison."

Wowed French Exposition.

The Rockettes, whose fame as a precision chorus spread to two continents when they took leave from the Music Hall last year and wowed the visitors at the Paris international exposition, had their modest beginning 13 years ago in St. Louis, Mo.

They are 46 in number now (ten of the girls get a week off out of each four). In 1925, they were only 16. Markert, a youngster then and lately out of the chorus of Earl Carroll's Vanities, had been called to St. Louis to train a chorus for the Skouras Brothers' motion picture house. To his surprise he found just what he was looking for—16 attractive, capable young girls—in a St. Louis dancing school.

No mirrors available, Markert put the chorus to work in front of the glass doors in the lobby of the Missouri theater.

"I didn't originate the precision chorus," says Markert, "nor the use of mirrors in training dancers —that had been a practice in ballet for years."

Instruction-Selection Is Secret.

But any one discussing with the lean, blond, still-young dance director the history of the Rockettes will realize that it is a combination of instruction with selection which has produced such proficiency in one of the world's largest dance and chorus units.

The general impression that the Rockettes are all the same height is the result of an optical illusion. The girls vary perhaps four inches from the shortest to tallest; but being graduated, like a strand of pearls, from largest in the center to smallest on the ends, they appear, when lined up, to be almost identical in stature.

The important thing, says Markert, is that all of the girls are identical in figure.

"I realized from the first that long - legged, high - waisted girls were best for chorus work. A girl whose figure does not conform to those of the others in the chorus is bound to appear 'out of step' no matter how good her dancing.

No 'Rugged Individualists.'

"Another thing is that all Rockettes must have the proper point of view about their work. The Rockettes are absolutely anonymous. They must recognize immediately the necessity for team work. And any girl who considers herself a 'rugged individualist' is out of place here."

The Rockettes are from 17 to 26 years old; average about five-feet-five in height; make $2,700 a year; get two weeks' vacation in summer in addition to one week off out of four. Most vacancies in the chorus are created by girls leaving to get married; a few by those "graduated" to Hollywood, the stage and night clubs.

CANADA TO TRY JOB INSURANCE PASSAGE AGAIN

Once-Defeated Proposals to Have Possibilities of Being Approved.

(By United Press)

OTTAWA, Ont.—The Canadian government will make another attempt to set up a national system of social or unemployment insurance in Canada at the next session of parliament, it is reliably understood.

The government made an attempt to establish the scheme at the last session, but it was blocked by the refusal of several provinces to cooperate.

The Dominion government cannot bring the project into effect without the cooperation of the provinces because, under the British North America Act—the Constitution, the provinces have jurisdiction over social services.

Two Methods Open.

The federal government has two ways of overcoming the constitutional obstacles—by amending the British North America Act in such a way that the provinces would forego to the Dominion their authority, or by enacting the necessary legislation for the scheme and leaving it up to the provinces to validate the legislation by enabling legislation of their own. The Dominion government believes that a national system of unemployment insurance is desirable for purposes of uniformity.

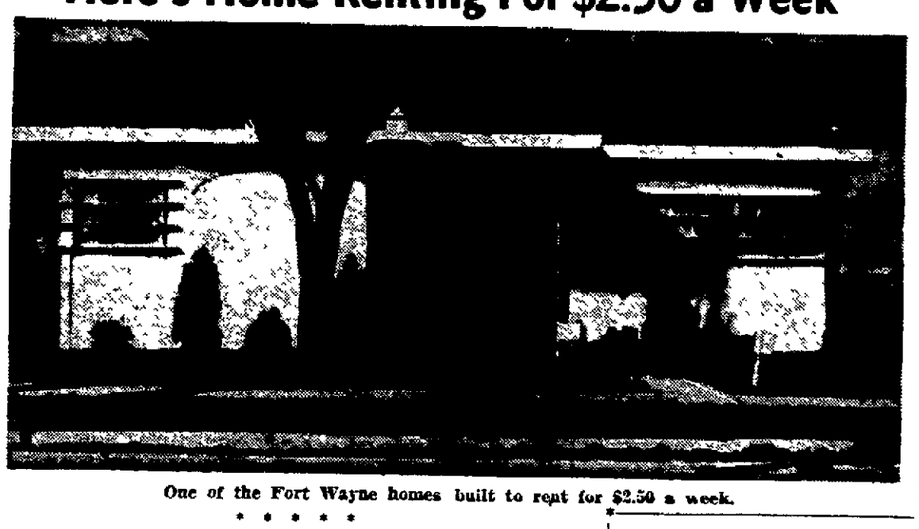
The federal government proposed a constitutional amendment to clear the way for enactment of legislation by the Dominion parliament at the last session, bringing the project into effect, but Alberta, Quebec, Ontario and New Brunswick would not agree to the amendment.

Issue May Be Forced.

It is expected that the Dominion government will try the second method at the next session and place upon any dissenting provincial governments the responsibility for not cooperating. It will enact the necessary statute establishing the system and make it operative only when "proclaimed," or when ratified by the provinces which agree to it by enabling enactments.

It is estimated that the scheme would cost about $50,000,000 a year. The funds would be raised through contributions by the Dominion government, workers and employers. The provincial governments would not be asked to contribute.

Here's Home Renting For $2.50 a Week



One of the Fort Wayne homes built to rent for $2.50 a week.

FORT WAYNE FIGHTING SLUMS WITH UNIQUE CLEARANCE PLAN

(By Associated Press)

FORT WAYNE, Ind.—With new houses that rent for $2.50 a week, built on lots acquired for $1 each, the Fort Wayne Housing Authority hopes to do away with slums.

The first houses are up—and occupied. Work is being hurried on others. If the first project of 50 dwellings meets no serious obstacles, a second project of 150 units will be started.

The houses are brand new, prefabricated by WPA workers in a low-rent factory. The sections are trucked to the sites, where other WPA workers erect them. The WPA figures each house costs about $1,300, of which $900 is for materials. Labor makes up most of the balance.

Sites for these houses are acquired from owners of vacant lots and lots containing old shacks. The owners have been paying taxes for years, while waiting for a chance to dispose of the lots.

Fort Wayne's Housing Authority pays $1 for each lot and agrees to pay all costs of title search and transfer. Also it promises to reconvey the lot to the original owner for $1 any time he finds a better use for it. The houses can be dismantled in 24 hours and moved to another site.

Each house is designed for a family of four. One room, 20x12 feet, serves as living room, dining room and kitchen. Besides this there are a bathroom and two bedrooms.

The city housing authority, which holds title to the homes, is tax-exempt, is non-profit, and possesses powers of eminent domain. It gets its running expenses from the city and is in essence an agency of the city.

Sanitary Homes Wanted.

The idea was born in the spring of 1936 when the state planning board joined in a campaign to provide better and more sanitary homes for unfortunate families. The first step was to enlist the aid of Purdue university in experimenting with a prefabricated, low-cost house.

When Purdue's model dwelling was ready, it was erected in an Indianapolis slum area. Last May, William B F. Hall, chairman of the Fort Wayne Housing Authority, asked the FHA in Washington if Fort Wayne could build houses like the Purdue model in its slum-clearance program.

In that query Hall attributed to "sub-standard housing conditions" much of Fort Wayne's relief costs, rent relief and municipal aid to the homeless. He said a large share of the city's public health costs and its bill for food, fuel and clothing of relief clients was traceable to poor housing.

His contention was that the relief group needed shelter for a maximum of $12 a month—without electric stoves, fancy kitchen cabinets and other gadgets.

Plan Accepted.

The FHA liked his idea, It put two men to work to see what could be developed. One was Frank Watson, who had helped design Purdue's model low-cost house, the other J. Stanley Young. Between them, they worked out the plans for the simple but attractive Fort Wayne house.

Construction is as simple as the house's design. For the floor a 4-inch concrete slab "floats" on a gravel fill. To this floor are secured 35 phenol-resin bonded plywood panels of identical size to supply exterior walls and partitions.

After WPA workers erect the houses, electricians, painters, roofers and plumbers add the finishing touches.

The rent-collecting job is assumed by the Associated Charities of Fort Wayne, but management of the properties is kept by the housing authority.

Hall says it may be possible to reduce the rents from $2 50 to $2 weekly after 200 of the houses are erected and occupied.

MORE IDLE LAND WORRIES STATES

Government Officials Facing Big Problem Finding Use for 'Dust Bowl.'

(By United Press)

CHICAGO — A major problem facing planning officials and other government agencies of the northern Great Plains states is the task of finding suitable use for abandoned "dust bowl" farm land.

With vast areas of the states of North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming and Montana abandoned by farmers, these states also are acquiring additional land through tax foreclosures, government agents reported. North Dakota, for example, took over the title to about 137,500 acres through quit claim deeds during the last seven or eight months. In South Dakota, more than 10,000,000 of its total area of 49,000,000 acres were delinquent in taxes at the beginning of the year.

In an effort to make the increasing areas of state-owned land serve a useful purpose, state planning boards in these states have been asked by the national resources committee to establish local advisory committees to cooperate in a joint federal and state program. These committees, government investigators said, would present specific problems, including possible local water conservation projects and plans for the control and use of underground and surface waters.

All four states lack legislation authorizing county zoning, through which large areas can be restricted to appropriate uses.

The problem of making state-owned land serve useful purposes is particularly acute in the dust-bowl states, but other areas have similar problems.

WOMEN INMATES OF KENTUCKY JAIL TO HAVE BEAUTY SERVICE

(By International News Service)

PINE BLUFF, Ky. — Firmly convinced that personal appearance does a great deal toward lifting morale, Kentucky's new women's prison superintendent—Mrs. Fanniebelle Sutherland—will install a beautician in the state's new feminine "big-house."

That is, if a state law will permit it, and from the manner in which the matronly, 43-year-old former school teacher, took hold of her new duties this week there was little doubt that this phase of her proposed prison routine would be denied.

"I am convinced that pride in appearance goes a long way toward lifting the morale," she declared after hearing of her appointment by Gov. A. B. Chandler.

She will also see that her charges, numbering approximately 100, have as much self-expression and private life as possible, that they mix recreation and relaxation with the work for which they are fitted, and that they will be permitted to obtain religious and nature studies. She will segregate those who might be diseased from those who are not, and supervise medical treatment for the ailing, she added.

Mrs. Sutherland had her program in mind on appointment, having visualized such a reformation plan through several years of work with federated clubs and during the six years she has served as city judge of Paris, Ky., her home.

The new reformatory superintendent, the widow of John T. Sutherland, was educated in Kentucky schools, took an extension course at Lake Chautauqua and became a jurist for a full term of four years after having served an unexpired, two-year term.

VOLUME DOWN

Farm Bureau Business for First 10 Months Hits $500,000.

The volume of business transacted by the Richland County Farm Bureau Cooperative association to Nov. 1 totaled $500,600, according to a report submitted to the board of directors by Vance Clever, manager.

While the dollar volume is slightly lower than for the same period in 1937, the decline was accounted for by lower prices on farm products and supplies, Clever said.

The total American income for the last year when statistics are available, 1935-36, was 60 billion dollars.

Goes Long Way To Prove It

Well, Johnny Jones has proven that one doesn't need a million dollars to fly. Johnny, who cast aside his tap dancing shoes with the decline of vaudeville to become an aviator, made a non-stop flight from Los Angeles to New York in a $2,000 midget airplane in 30 hours and 47 minutes—to show people that "you don't need a million dollars to fly, just a third down and easy terms." The plane was the smallest ever to make a non-stop transcontinental flight and required only 122 gallons of gas to traverse the 2,785 miles. Total cost of the flight was $24.75.

PASTOR SLAIN, QUESTION SON

bors that he had been fighting with the Loyalist forces in Spain.

He said that before that he had worked as an accountant.

Dr. Bready took the Bainbridge parsonage about four years ago. His wife died last July.

Dr. Bready also had held pastorates in Cincinnati, Detroit, Pontiac, and Pioneer, O.

Besides his son, Robert, Dr. Bready is survived by another son, Russell, jr., of Washington, D. C., and two daughters, Mrs. Stewart Watson of Detroit and Mrs W. W. Kunney of Warsaw, Ind.

GIRL RELATES TORTURE STORY

Kidnaped Maryland Student Held Prisoner 30 Hours, Tossed From Truck.

Police had searched for the small, black-panelled delivery truck in which the girl said she was kidnaped and in which she said she was returned.

Reaches Farm Home.

Mary, whose kidnaping was reported by her sister, Lucy, 15, late Wednesday afternoon, walked through a back field to her father's farmhouse shortly before 11 p. m. last night.

She said the three men who dragged her into their truck a quarter mile from the house the previous afternoon had pushed her out of the truck on a road back of the Brown family farm and sped away.

She was hysterical and her story was incoherent. All she could tell of the men was that they had a "foreign accent" and that one had a moustache. She said that she had not been attacked.

"She remembers having laid on a mattress in the back of the truck for a long time," Brown said. "They rode around almost continuously. She remembers only a few stops, none of long duration."

The bruises, according to her father, were caused by the men who, she told him, "Knocked me but with their fists several times."

She was not allowed to tell her story except to police and members of the family. Only fragments of her story were revealed by her father.

Kept Blindfolded.

Mary's story as revealed by her father and Manning, was that the men who abducted her had driven around for many hours. She had been blindfolded and kept in the rear of the truck on a mattress.

Last night, she told her father, the truck slowed down but didn't stop and she was pushed out through the rear door. The truck then speeded on.

Police hoped to get a more coherent story of the girl's experiences later today when she has recovered. She was under a physician's care.

The most valuable clue was her description of the truck. In addition, however, there was the general description of the men given by Mary and her sister. Although Lucy said two "foreign looking" men carried her sister away while she fled across a muddy field, Mary said three men were in the truck.

Other clues police looked for were the mattress upon which Mary said she was forced to lie. Police believed that the men might try to dispose of it.

Mary graduated from the Notre Dame academy a year ago but was taking an advanced business course.

ments for at least a week," the mayor said.

The two additional names the mayor asked for were delivered to his office this morning, Henkel, who is chairman of the group of three, said today.

Neither the mayor nor Henkel would reveal the names of the three perons listed in the first recommendation nor the names of the two additional persons submitted today.

However, The News-Journal learned from a reliable source that the three whose names were first submitted were Roy Vaughn, president of the Mansfield Public Parks association; Henry G. Brunner, former Democratic mayor and now state manager of the HOLC, and Robert S. Gibson, cashier of the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank.

The names of both Vaughn and Gibson had been heard previously in speculation concerning the park board. Vaughn had been recommended to the mayor directly by his own organization.

explanation of the speech which Fascist Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano made to the deputies—in the presence of the new French ambassador, Andre Francois-Poncet—in regard to Italy's colonial aspirations. The French press vigorously denounced the Italian claims and declared nothing would be yielded.

The Giornale D'Italia bitterly attacked the French press in its article, which was made more significant because it was signed by Virginio Gayda, who is close to the fascist premier.

A semi-official communique attributed the incident to "bad humor" on the part of the Italians following the refusal of France to grant belligerent rights to Nationalist Spain. The communique expressed the hope that the misunderstanding would be cleared up.

It was believed that the incident would strengthen determination in France not to grant belligerent rights to the Spanish nationalists.

If Franco-Italian talks are resumed early next year, the Tunisian question was expected to become an obstacle in the path of a friendship pact.

WHITTEMORE TO BE SENATE LEADER, BELIEF

G. O. P. Senators-Elect Gather for Caucus, Form Working Organization.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Frank E. Whittemore of Akron was generally conceded the inside track for president pro-tem and majority leader of the senate as Republican members-elect gathered today to caucus on organization of the 93rd general assembly's upper chamber.

Thomas E. Bateman of Columbus, a former senate clerk, was expected to be returned to that position in the new legislature, which begins a two-year stand next month.

Party house members-elect in caucus yesterday designated William M. McCullough of Piqua as speaker, Rep. J. Harry McGregor of West Lafayette as speaker protem and majority leader, and Otis R. Johnson of Fulton county as clerk.

Selections for other offices were:

Floyd Templin of Clinton county, journal clerk; Lewis Byers of Seneca county, message clerk; Mrs. Ruth Rhodes of Trumbull county, engrossing clerk; Mrs. Ella Scrivens of Cuyahoga Falls, recording clerk.

Allen Brookey of Dayton, sergeant-at-arms; John Gillooley of Bridgeport, his first assistant; Holbert Morgan of Muskingum county, second assistant; Floyd Stormont of Gallipolis, third assistant.

Names Committee.

Caucus Chairman R. R. Bangham, Clinton county representative, said he would name a patronage committee to fill minor positions. Bingham also will name an unofficial group of nine to confer with a similar senate committee and elective state officials on Jan. 9 inauguration plans. Governor-Elect John W. Bricker assured the caucus he would co-operate wholeheartedly with the legislature, adding:

"I want to leave a record that will be a credit to the Republican party."

Acting to carry out G. O. P. platform pledges of economy, the caucus abolished the $3,300-a-year office of deputy clerk, which was filled by Miss Ann Makley of Dayton until her resignation to become state parole board secretary.

While Republicans were consolidating their political gains, a prediction came from Charles Sawyer, defeated Democratic gubernatorial candidate, that his party would "regain control of affairs in Ohio."

"I am not out of politics," said Sawyer in a prepared statement. "The party has honored me and I shall in the future do everything I can to show my appreciation of that honor."

Sawyer, Democratic national committeeman, became titular head of his party in Ohio by defeating Gov. Martin L. Davey in the primary. He issued the statement en route home from New York and Washington where he conferred with national Democratic leaders.

BOYS IN COURT

Youngster Accused of Looting Parked Automobiles.

Two youths, the older of whom is 15, were to go before Judge C. J. Anderson in juvenile court today in connection with the looting of several automobiles last night.

The youths were taken into custody by police who found them loitering along the Baltimore & Ohio railroad near Bowman street at 8:30 p. m. with the pockets filled with various articles of merchandise.

Brought to police headquarters and questioned, police said they admitted looting several automobiles in a parking lot at the rear of 100 West Fourth street, earlier in the evening.

They were released to their parents and ordered to appear in court today.

DENVER—(U.P.)—Denver fire department officials said today a lighted match thrown into a waste basket apparently had started a blaze which gutted the third floor of a downtown hotel and forced two persons to jump into the street.

Forty residents in the building were trapped by the flames which spread quickly through the structure.

Charles Hall, 36, who suffered a fractured right leg, an injured right hip and a possible fractured pelvis, was the most seriously injured.

Hall, and Grace Hansen, 28, jumped from the third floor of the hotel when trapped by the flames.

TIE UP PLANT

4,500 Fisher Body Workers Strike at Flint.

FLINT, Mich. — (INS) — Production at the Fisher body plant No. 1 was halted today by a strike of 4,500 workers.

The strike went into effect a quarter of an hour after United Automobile Workers Union local leaders announced the membership voted 3,800 to 400 to strike because of "an accumulation of long standing grievances."

Another 2,000 workers on the afternoon shift were also expected to be affected. The plant supplies bodies for the General Motors corporation Buick plant.

Local leader Henry Wilson said the chief complaint was made by 1,500 press room workers who demanded day pay rates instead of the piece work rates they now receive.

HOLDS UP PAY

Civil Service Rejects Voucher for School Custodian.

The civil service commission today had held up the pay of a board of education employe not listed on the commission's records.

This was disclosed when the payroll record was returned to the board of education with the notation that a voucher for $58.33 to Charles Birmelin for custodian services was not approved.

The commission said Birmelin was not on the civil service eligibility list. He was appointed by J. B. Moke, superintendent of buildings. Birmelin, a former custodian, resigned two years ago and has not been reinstated.

Atty. George Biddle, commission secretary, said the amount due Birmelin was for services at the Senior high school where a vacancy existed because of the recent death of one of the custodians.

HEARING STARTS

Court Hears $2,500 Damage Suit, Injunction Action.

Trial of a suit for $2,500 damages and an injunction involving the alleged flooding of a property at 35 West First street by surface water opened this morning in common pleas court before a jury of eight men and four women.

The trial was marked by frequent warnings by Judge C. H. Huston to Atty. R. J. Brown, one of the plaintiff's lawyers, to make his charges more specific.

John A. McCue, rear of 35 West First street, the plaintiff, contended in his suit that his property was damaged by surface water from an adjoining lot owned by Carl H. Stander, 475 Marion avenue, the defendant.

McCue's counsel, Attys' Brown and John C. O'Donnell, contended that Stander graded his property so as to cause the water to flow onto McCue's lots and into the basement of his home.

Stander is being defended by Atty. George H. Blecker.

WINNERS OF HOME TALENT SHOW DEC. 15 TO GET RADIO AUDITION

Arrangements have been made by the Junior Association of Commerce to obtain a radio audition for the winner of their second Community Sing and home talent show which will be staged at Senior High school auditorium Dec. 15. Proceeds will be used to buy shoes for Mansfield school children confined to their homes because of the lack of footwear.

More than $100 was cleared last December when the organization sponsored a similar event. This was divided between the Three Muster-Cheers and the Friendly House.

The show is open to amateur talent and to all ages. R. B. Burnham, general chairman, said today that the association was especially anxious to enlist musical talent of all kinds, as the winner will have an opportunity to have an audition at WTAM Cleveland. Arrangements for the audition were made by Fred Wilson, program director of WTAM and talent scout, who is a former Mansfield choir singer.

Entry applications to the Community Sing should be made to Don Kirkpatrick, room 305 Richland Trust building.

Acts of amateur talent will be alternated with community singing, Burnham said, all directed by a master of ceremonies. Tickets for the affair are being sold by members of the Junior Association of Commerce.

Jacob Sutter, 53, Mansfield, who was returned here three days ago from Lake Geneva, Wis., on an indictment for non-support, was sentenced to one to three years in the Ohio penitentiary yesterday by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston.

Sutter pleaded guilty to a charge of abandoning five minor children, including five-year-old twins, nearly two years ago. He is the father of nine children.

He was indicted by the grand jury last year, but officers had been unable to locate him until he was found recently, working on a farm in Wisconsin. Sheriff E. P. Long returned him to Mansfield.

BOARD ACTS TO EXTEND CIVIL SERVICE SCOPE

Calls for Lists of Municipal Positions in Preparation for January Exams.

Extension of the merit rating system to include municipal office employes was seen today when the civil service commission called for a complete list of all clerical positions in the city departments.

The request, made to Service-Safety Director A. Nist today, asked that the commission be supplied with a complete list of all regular office employes in the waterworks, garbage, sewer and police departments.

George W. Biddle, secretary of the commission, said the request had been made to enable the commission to set up the classifications for competitive examinations.

Tests In January.

He said the commission had asked for a complete list of all clerical positions in order that they might determine what positions and how many employes are to be placed under civil service.

Biddle said the commission hoped to classify the positions so that examinations for the posts could be held early next month.

It was pointed out that the city auditor's office, the judicial branch and clerical and stenographic positions in the office of the mayor and service director were exempt from classification because each of these departments were allowed four such positions under the state civil service rules under which the Mansfield commission operates.

Freh F. Huber, president of the commission, said that the commission was holding in abeyance the matter of classifying the positions in the health and parks departments and at the sewage treatment plant.

He explained that the sewage plant positions were not to be considered at present "because of obvious reasons." He declined to comment further.

Action Withheld.

The parks department positions, he said would not be considered until after the proposed park commission plan of management, now in the hands of Mayor Claude M. Hunter, had been set up.

The health department, Huber said, would require "some study" before consideration was given about placing any of the positions under civil service because of the "entanglements" involving the payments of salaries which he said were made by the state, county, city and school board, for the various employes.

'STREAMLINED INFANTRY,' NEW FOR U. S. ARMY, GIVEN APPROVAL

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—A new streamlined infantry regiment, smaller but far more mobile and harder hitting than either its World war counterpart or the regiment of today, has received war department approval.

Moving by motor truck and armed with semi-automatic rifles, it is intended to become a major unit in the high speed army on wheels which is being developed to keep pace with post-war trends.

While officials made public details of these plans today, Secretary Woodring reported to President Roosevelt that national defense requirements might hasten construction of a third and possibly larger set of locks for the Panama canal.

His report followed closely his recommendation to Mr. Roosevelt that the canal be made "impregnable."

Current surveys, which will be speeded up, contemplating new facilities costing $150,000,000 or more, to be ready about 1960.

At full war strength, the new regiment has but 2,411 officers and men, contrasted with the World war 3,742 and the present 3,009.

Whereas the 1917-18 regiment was armed with 3,200 Springfield single-shot rifles, and the existing regiment has 1,852 such weapons, the new organization will have 1,492 semi-automatic rifles, giving triple fire power. It also will have heavier and more numerous machine guns and auxiliary weapons.

The horse and mule have been marked for eventual complete discard.

Squads have been increased from eight to twelve men. The new semi-automatic rifles fire eight shots without reloading.

Former Mansfield Publisher Acquires Opposition in Santa Ana, Cal.

R. C. Hoiles, one-time owner of the Mansfield News, now publisher of papers in California, New Mexico and Texas, today acquired the Santa Ana, Cal., Journal, opposition paper to his Santa Ana Register, dispatches from California said.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1938.

Little progress can be made by letting "human nature" have a free rein.

Latest estimate places the world's population at 2,134,000,000—which accounts for so many minorities.

According to a Washington report, "A powerful section of his party is considering Hopkins for president"—but Republicans will probably regard this as too good to be true.

Mansfield Is Having a Good Year.

SEVERAL current news items bear out the forecast of early 1938 that this would be a year of gradually increasing prosperity in Mansfield.

New building construction has gone along nicely through the year and plans already announced for residential and apartment house construction assure a good start-off for 1939.

Industrial conditions in this city have also shown encouraging improvement in recent months, with further reduction of unemployment dependent on a general upturn of business and consequent greater outlet for products of Mansfield factories.

Demand for new cars, which in some instances has been in excess of supply available for prompt delivery, also tends to disclose purchasing ability on the part of many people in this community, as well as greater confidence in the future.

Holiday shopping is already off to a good start in Mansfield stores, with likelihood of an active week-end due to yesterday's distribution of more than $200,000 in Christmas savings checks.

All in all, 1938 can probably be checked up as a good year by a large majority of Mansfield people, despite some remaining evidences of depression, relief requirements and continuance of unemployment, or part-time work for a number of persons as yet unable to find jobs.

Some months ago there was a "Sales Make Jobs" campaign in Mansfield. Someone suggests that it might be better to say that "Buying Makes Jobs"—but whichever way it is said the fact remains that circulation of money is essential to national or local prosperity and that buying and selling is necessary in order to keep factories running and people employed.

Buy the things you need and can afford to have—and buy them in Mansfield.

Fewer Deaths on Nation's Highways.

PRESENT indications are that traffic deaths this year will be considerably under the 1937 total of almost 40,000. It is now believed that the 1938 toll will approximate 31,000.

While this will make an excellent showing for the nation-wide safety programs being carried on in practically every city, much yet remains to be done before any claim can be made to intelligent handling of problems arising from rapid development of motor vehicle traffic on streets and highways.

Even 30,000 deaths a year from traffic accidents is a frightful toll—and this does not take into account the several hundred thousand additional persons who each year sustain serious or minor injuries in collisions or other kinds of auto mishaps.

Nor is much consideration given to losses sustained from damage to cars that result largely from careless, reckless or incompetent driving. The fact that such losses are, in most instances, covered by insurance, does not justify minimizing their importance, for insurance rates are based on statistics showing probability of claims being made under terms of the policy and, under present conditions, must necessarily be high.

Many cities, and some states, have demonstrated how traffic accidents can be greatly reduced by strict enforcement of reasonable speed limits and other safety measures. Pennsylvania is making a notable record along this line with enforcement of a 50-mile limit, while Ohio, with an unenforced 45-mile limit has gained an unenviable reputation for reckless driving and frequency of highway accidents.

Although Ohio has what is termed a driver's license law, it is one of the sort that permits even the most ignorant and incompetent persons to get a license and does not take into account drinking habits, physical infirmities, bad vision, defective hearing or mental handicaps that make safe driving impossible.

Little further progress toward solving the traffic accident problem seems likely until all states take the steps necessary to make certain that no person is given a driver's license without evidencing reasonable capability and a knowledge of traffic regulations.

Ohio might well meet its obligation along this line without further procrastination.

Back to Barter System.

SOME nations are doing as pioneer communities used to do, swapping goods for goods instead of each party selling for money and then using that money to buy other goods.

Swapping was forced on pioneer communities because they hadn't any adequate medium of exchange. Individuals in civilized regions almost everywhere have outgrown it. But now governments, representing their people and lacking money or credit to trade with, are acting just as their individuals used to among each other. They trade so much wheat for so many pairs of shoes, such and such machinery for so much wool or cotton, fertilizer for fruit, iron for lumber, and so on.

This barter technique has been worked out chiefly by Germany, which is using it with some success among her neighbors in central and southeastern Europe. Now the National Industrial Conference board, a group of disinterested American experts, insists that the United States should adopt the same procedure.

It means dropping the present policy of giving foreign countries credit with which to buy our materials, and instead agreeing to buy so much of their goods in return for so much of our own.

Guardians of the Dionne quintuplets have decided against showing them at the New York world fair next year—to the keen disappointment of promoters who know what the public wants.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—During the Spanish-American war a certain Capt. Slocum, a retired seadog, was sailing around the world alone in a little single-masted skiff about as long as a cottage living room. It was in part a publicity stunt for a cleaning compound.

As he sailed down the coast of Chile the battleship Oregon overtook him on its race around the horn to join the fleet against Cervera. When the huge Oregon drew abreast of Slocum's bobbing little boat, he hoisted a series of signal flags and the Oregon loosed a blast of good natured whistling in reply as it sped on its warlike way. What Capt. Slocum signaled was:

"Let us said together for mutual protection."

In rough measure that is what now is proposed for the United States and the balance of the American republics to agree to at the Pan-American conference at Lima, Peru, in December. A difference is that the United States, for several reasons, makes the proposal.

There are some truly up-to-date cruisers and a few destroyers and submarines scattered among the republics but for the most part their fleets are made up of forlorn museum pieces which never would dare venture out of harbor in the face of an up-to-date fleet.

* * *

Better Air Forces.

THE air forces, although meager, are better. Several of the countries have a limited number of light bombers and fighting planes bought from the United States, Italy and Germany which would be a credit to any air fleet. But scattered as they are over a whole continent, adjacent islands and parts of another continent, they would offer no sustained resistance to attack.

Ground forces are large in number, even in comparison with the U. S. army, but modern equipment in large part is limited, especially in the zones of coast and field artillery and mechanized units

Best equipped in all respects are, of course, the large "ABC" nations: Argentina, Brazil and Chile. Best equipped of these is Argentina, whose attitude toward the United States is far less fervidly friendly than the others.

* * *

Argentina Powerful.

ARGENTINA has two 1915-battleships with 12-inch guns, four new light cruisers, nine destroyers and seven building, three submarines, 28 miscellaneous auxiliaries, perhaps 150 military planes, a standing army of 30,000 and a half million reserves.

Brazil has two ancient battleship lately refurbished, two ancient cruisers, eight old destroyers and three building, four recent submarines and three building, two dozen miscellaneous auxiliaries, an air fleet of unreported strength but reliably estimated as approaching Argentina's, and a standing army of 94,000, with 200,000 reserves.

Chile has one 1915 battleship, four 1890 cruisers, eight aged destroyers, three middle-aged and six aged submarines, 17 auxiliaries, an unlisted number of planes but likely 75 to 80, a standing army of 30,000 and 177,000 reserves.

* * *

Other Countries Weak.

THERE isn't a corporal's guard of sea or air power in the other countries.

All in all, the ineffective armament in the southern zone emphasizes, perhaps more than anything else, that what the U. S. hopes to accomplish at Lima is to build up a friendly instead of fearsome acceptance of one thing. It is, that defense of the western hemisphere, in spite of all international spoofing about co-operation among the republics, is a job for the United States, and it alone.

TVA 'Yardstick' Fails to Measure

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINTON—One of the most extraordinary developments of any congressional inquiry in the memory of the oldest inhabitants is what the joint senate-house committee investigating the Tennessee Valley Authority is doing with regard to the so-called yardstick.

The point is that the committee has heard testimony for days running about the yardstick. Experts for the utilities have occupied days of the committee's time attacking the concept, seeking to prove that it is the bunk, that it is unfair, that it has no relation to what it is really supposed to be. The committee counsel, Francis Biddle, has spent endless effort trying to knock down the contentions of these experts, with some assistance from the Democratic members of the committee.

Which would be all right except for one little thing. What is happening is that a straw man has been erected, and everybody is acting as though he were real. The experts for the utilities are attacking the straw man and trying to knock him over. Biddle and the Democrats are also acting as though the straw man were the sacred ark of the covenant and trying to prevent a single dent or singe.

What is this straw man? It is the concept of the TVA yardstick that the public in general, and congress in particular, held up to last summer. It was the idea that the TVA was going to determine, by actual operation, what electric rates should be, what prices would be fair, and what prices extortionate. This yardstick was to be held up to the country, with the general idea that the public would know whether, in any particular community, it was being treated fairly by its utility company.

* * *

BUT that concept was thrown to the winds last summer at Knoxville by no less an authority than David E. Lilienthal, who is not only the most powerful of the two remaining Tennessee Valley Authority commissioners, but is the one to whom the TVA assigned—even before Arthur E. Morgan left—exclusive control of the electric phase of TVA.

Lilienthal was on the stand before this same committee. He was asked by Representative Charles A. Wolverton what it was that enabled a government operation to sell electricity more cheaply than a privately owned one.

Lilienthal frankly stated, with no hesitation at all, what the elements were. One was that the government could borrow money for two per cent, whereas private capital had to pay much more. He pointed out that in the production of electricity from water power the chief element of cost is interest on investment, the cost of the dam, the land for the reservoir, the dynamos, the power transmission lines, etc.

* * *

ANOTHER element which made government costs cheaper, he pointed out, was that when the government built the dam it could charge of a considerable fraction of the cost to flood control and navigation, whereas a private company had no way of being able to cash in on such benefits, even if they were admitted.

Still a third element, he admitted, was the difference in taxes.

In some surprise, Senator Harry H. Schwartz, one of the Democratic members of the committee, asked Lilienthal what, in view of what Lilienthal had just said, became of the yardstick. Lilienthal hesitated for a moment, and then asked the committee's permission to take some time in carefully writing out his answer. He would like to produce a definition of the yardstick, he said, which would be right and, could not be attacked.

That was last August. As the year draws to a close, the committee is proceeding just as though the original concept of the yardstick were still gospel, and Lilienthal has never produced his definition.

Humor For Children.

At a recent conference on reading for children held by New York teachers it was agreed that more attention should be given to development of the sense of humor. It was noted by one speaker that until recently too little attention had been given to books of humor for children, but that writers and publishers are beginning to take interest in them. We hope this small sign is not deceptive. Children are ready to laugh and we suspect that education might take better if it had a sense of humor. It would also help teachers.

And the cultivation of the sense of humor should begin as early as possible. It is strange that though laughter is so pleasant there is so little of it in this world. No doubt there are sorrows and disillusionments enough and to spare in this vale of tears. All the more reason why we should begin as soon as possible to learn to smile.—Chicago Tribune.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Whereof This "Liberalism"!

By WALTER E. SPAHR
Professor of Economics, New York University.

The New Dealers have constantly dubbed themselves "progressives" and "liberals," and their opponents "reactionaries."

Although much has been written and said about the correct meaning and implication of these terms, it should be easy to see what the words "progressive" and "liberal" mean to the New Deal policies and New Deal adherents.

Being liberal or progressive, according to New Deal standards, means approval of policies that pile up an unprecedented public debt; that create an annual federal deficit; that prepare a huge tax burden for our children.

It means that heavy unemployment and the number of people on relief should be maintained at a persistently high level.

It means that our nation should have a depreciated inconvertible paper money; that the silver interests should be subsidized; that the dollar should be devaluated; and the deposit currency in our banks should be created against the government's illiquid deficit.

It means that the farmers should be subsidized for restricting production while large imports of farm products are permitted.

It means that businessmen must be harassed and oppressed, and the processes of industry dislocated or stopped.

It means the collection of taxes on the wage earner, under the guise of social insurance, and the dissipation of the funds to help the New Dealers carry out their "liberal" policies.

It means a blank check to the president, much of which is used to aid political favorites by giving their constituents bridges, roads, buildings, and so on.

It means keeping many people on relief so that political machines can levy political tribute upon these distressed people.

It means a class struggle, with labor pitted against employers, with labor levied upon to support unwarranted labor bosses, with labor strikes and loss of income, with a labor board to keep the pot boiling.

It means an attack by the chief executive on the United States supreme court.

It means an attempt to pack congress with yes-men.

It means that grave economic issues must be made into political issues to serve the interests of the party in power.

It means what it means to the Communist; and it is for this reason that the Communist so gladly supports the New Deal and has become such an important part of it.

As I write, I have before me a publication, issued by the Communist party of the United States, which points out that "the reactionaries in both the Democratic and Republican parties have formed a coalition against the progressive principles and measures of the New Deal. The liberals in both parties, together with the labor movement and independent progressives, are uniting their ranks in support of President Roosevelt's program."

The article says further: "The major purpose of the Communist party is to unify the ranks of liberal and progressive forces. We work for an alliance between the CIO and the A. F. of L. We work for united support for New Deal objectives." Again: "If we are to continue to go forward, we must work together with all those who are united in support of the president's recovery program. . . . Our party has therefore withdrawn its own candidates wherever there is a clear choice between a liberal and a reactionary candidate."

This Communist publication also carried an enclosure which says that "In the camp of the progressives are President Roosevelt and the New Deal Democrats, the American Labor party, the masses of organized labor, the Communists, as well as progressives generally." This same publication also spoke of the "infamous Dies committee," which also was condemned by the president and certain members of his cabinet.

Altogether those people who pride themselves on being "liberal" and "progressive" in the New Deal sense should experience little difficulty in identifying their liberalism. It is the "liberalism" which meets the approval of the Communists!

A Farmer's Diary

Cutting Wood.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

OFTEN when the days are wet and cold. I like to sit by the glowing stove near the center of the kitchen, and with file in hand, sharpen my new, large, double-bitted ax. The roaring fire, so close at hand, gives me a more contented feeling as I push the file up and down across the lateral edges of the shiny bit. The small hard filings fall like useless dust upon the floor.

When this is done, and I deftly run my fingers across the keen smooth edge, I am content to know I have sharpened my ax before I start to do my work.

Then, with it across my shoulder, I set out for the ravaged wasted woodland, with Sonny at my heels. Across his narrow little shoulder, he bears my hatchet.

When we have crossed the northern field, and entered where once a splendid forest stood, I climb upon the prone, hard trunk and begin to hack the branches off. With the keen blade, each blow cuts deeply into the yielding branch, and chips fly hard and swift in front of me.

I like to see the open cuts reveal the white rings of growth and the converging centers of beech, maple or hickory. I stoop to get the odor of the fresh new wounds, more pleasant than the fragrance of the finest rose. I often wonder how such sweetness could be concealed so long, and still keep fresh and new, hidden beneath the rugged bark and outer shell.

I find it a privilege to have the strength and health to cut the wood that keeps my precious family warm and comfortable—that cooks their food and scatters the sunshine of many summers about the shadowy walls. This wood, enveloped in glowing heat, lends peace and happiness to all who enter within these rustic rooms.

When winter comes, and snow piles high about the deep-grooved window sills, and icy winds go howling about the weather-beaten corners, I hope I will have a copious pile of wood heaped close the sheltering kitchen porch. Then if Old Man Winter fills his reddened cheeks and blows his rudest storms, we will not care, for we will feel the deeper comfort of our home.

Listen, World!

Born With Their Fingers Crossed.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

AS THE finale to her recent poem—"FONTAINE, JE NE BOIRAI PAS DE TON EAU!"—Edna St. Vincent Millay wrote these tragic lines—

"The young are so old; they are born with their fingers crossed. I shall get no help from them!"

"THEY ARE BORN WITH THEIR FINGERS CROSSED"—that is a terrible charge to make against a generation. But wait a moment before you hang that charge on Young America.

For twenty years it has been my priceless privilege to work for and with young people. I receive a daily average of 400 youthful letters. Sometimes as many as 2,000 arrive in one morning—all of which are voluntary, written on any desired subject, the writers being under 30 years of age. I state these facts merely as evidence that — outside my motherhood—I have widespread and intimate contact with the younger generation.

They are amazing affairs, these spontaneous expressions of Youth. Where we, given our choice at their age, would have discussed Candy Heart Topics, these young people debate abstract issues affecting every department of our national life and character. They analyze these issues with the verve and versatility of veterans. They are, easily, the most public-minded generation America has ever seen . . . with the firmest grasp on reality.

However admirable this may seem, we Oldsters cannot honestly claim credit for it. It is the inevitable and unconscious result of birth in the Machine Age and the confusion which has accompanied the advent of that age. Out of the mingled luxury, license and lack of a disordered era, these children "have learned the answers."

But there is one part of their training which is directly traceable to us—and that is the attitude which modern Young America, in general, has toward life. It is tragically true that they are "born with their fingers crossed." But they are not responsible for those crossed fingers. You and I are responsible! You and I have laid this brand on their young, impressionable spirits!

As children, we also faced privation . . . even cruder privation than they face today. Life was immeasurably more formidable in 1898 for the average youngster than it is in 1938 . . . incomparably more drab and drudging. Our means of earning money were few . . . our futures were precarious. We wore patches . . . carried bundles . . . endured, as a matter of course, privations and humiliations which these youngsters would regard with horror.

But we had something they do not have. We had an eagerness, a curiosity, a courage, a flaming sense of adventure! And we had these things because our parents gave them to us! They were believed in and lived by every oldster in the land. Privately, we youngsters may have longed for more fun and freedom . . . BUT WE NEVER LONGED FOR MORE SOFTNESS OR SECURITY! We were too near Valley Forge for that . . . to near the Covered Wagons! We wore our rags as Washington and Fremont had worn theirs—and would have looked with loathing on anyone who suggested we did not have sufficient gumption to wear rags or face risk.

But today, as I write, a file of well-fed, well-dressed youngsters are parading outside my window. And above their young and husky shoulders rises this banner—"WE WANT SECURITY!"

They want Security! They want Security at an age when their great-grandfathers were being scalped by Indians or eaten by buzzards in the service of America!

AND GOD HELP US. YOU AND I HAVE TAUGHT THEM TO WANT THAT SECURITY! YOU AND I WITH OUR BLEATS AND WHINES ABOUT DEPRESSION . . . YOU AND I WITH OUR SHAMELESS ACCEPTANCE OF RELIEF WHILE THERE'S STILL A FIGHT LEFT IN US . . .

Sneer at those children for their cowardice? Lecture them for their softness? Not I. I know them! I know they aren't naturally cowards or softies! BUT YOU AND I HAVE MADE COWARDICE AND SOFTNESS SEEM RIGHT TO THEM . . . SEEM AMERICAN! BENEDICT ARNOLD WAS FORCED TO FLEE THE COUNTRY FOR LESS THAN THAT!

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—You'll recall, of course, the story about the vaudeville hoofer with the trained seal who was out of work so long that when he finally did get a job the seal had forgotten how to swim—and drowned.

Now comes Al Jolson with this anecdote of the prizefight manager who sat across the table from him at a restaurant the other night.

"How's tricks?" enthused Jolson, shaking hands, "how's the fight game treating you these days?"

"Business is so bad," wailed the guy, "that when my man is taking a terrific beating I have to throw in a PAPER towel."

TOSCANINI is noted for his fits of temperament, but there are moments when he gives voice to utterances that would do credit to a diplomat.

There is the case of Emanuel Feuerman, the 'cellist, who gave a concert at Zurich one night—and regretted it for 12 years. Just before he went on a confrere whispered that Toscanini was in the house, and this intelligence so disturbed the 'cellist that he gave a very shoddy performance.

Indeed, he was so chagrined that he rushed from the concert hall without going out front to meet the maestro.

Recently they met in New York and Emanuel asked Toscanini: "Do you remember that terrible exhibition I gave in Zurich? I played badly that night."

"No," replied Toscanini, "I have heard you on the air and admired you, but I never heard you play in concert."

"Whereupon the 'cellist described the occasion and insisted on refreshing the maestro's memory.

Then Toscanini interrupted: "I still say I have never heard you play in concert. I remember hearing a very bad 'cellist in Zurich 12 years ago, but I never heard you play."

JIM MORAN, the super-salesman who went to Alaska and sold refrigerators to the Eskimos, is in New York and plans to remain here for a few days. But he didn't unfurl any new and startling ideas to the boys at luncheon.

At that, he doesn't need any new ideas at the present, for his laurels gained in the north and in Hollywood are still green enough. Having disposed of those refrigerators, Mr. Moran then captured a herd of Arctic fleas and sold them to Hollywood—claiming that fleas used to glacial lights could work under kleig lights better than domestic fleas. Hollywood paid him $750 for his polar fleas. That, honey-bunch, is salesmanship.

New York varied its turkey dinner prices greatly on Thanksgiving. The better known restaurants ranged between $1.75 and $2.50. But there was one place on 3rd avenue that offered an eight course dinner for 40 cents, and this included a glass of beer.

First Lesson.

Life's first lesson, to forget
All unhappy things,
Is not easy, but once learned
Peace and calm it brings.

Many lessons must be learned
This, the first of all:
Blotting out unhappiness
Past threat of recall.

Only thus you can move on To successes. Then
Learn the lesson, for delay
Brings you "might have been."

TORCH APPLIED TO PEST-RIDDEN COTTON LANDS

Firing of Stocks Following Picking Eradicates Pink Bollworm, Growers Say.

(By United Press)

McALLEN, Tex.—The pink bollworm has become the terror of South Texas cotton fields and has become a serious threat to cotton growing throughout the south.

But the pest has one weakness, one which federal and state eradication experts have found particularly difficult to attack effectively—its life cycle.

To eradicate the pink bollworm, its breeding place must be destroyed. The worm feeds only on cotton bolls, destroying the lint and cutting the staple. It breeds only on cotton stalks.

The bureau of entomology and plant quarantine of the department of agriculture has under way a vast program to destroy all cotton stalks immediately after the growing season.

R. E. McDonald of San Antonio has direct supervision of eradication work throughout the nation's infested areas—now confined to a small section in Arizona and in the Rio Grande Valley and Big Bend areas of Texas.

Stalks Must Be Burned.

A compulsory program has been under way since the pink bollworm was discovered in the Big Bend country several years ago. Farmers are required to burn all cotton stalks immediately after the picking season.

Most serious infestation in Texas is in the Big Bend. When the worm appeared there several years ago, Presidio, Brewster and Jeff Davis counties produced from 5,000 to 6,000 bales of cotton annually from a small valley about 50 miles long and 200 yards to two miles wide. In 1918, this yield had been reduced from 30 per cent in some areas to 100 per cent in others.

The life cycle and habits of the pink bollworm make it a most difficult pest to eradicate, but provides the only method thus for known for its control.

The moth is less than a half inch long and has a half inch wingspread. It is a night flyer. It serves only to propagate the species, having no mouth and no means of feeding. The moth lays its eggs in old cotton stalks and dies immediately.

When the eggs hatch, the pink bollworm enters the cotton boll where it remains three weeks, shedding its skin three times and growing larger at each shedding. The worm meanwhile eats the cottonseed and lint, ruining both.

The worm finally emerges from the boll and changes into a pupa, or inactive form. Several days later the pupa becomes a moth or "miller" which mates, lays eggs and dies.

The eradication workers inspect cotton farms and direct the burning of cotton stalks which may contain the bollworm eggs.

In the Big Bend country, no cotton is allowed to stand or grow after Oct. 1 and no cotton may be planted in that area earlier than May 1.

PAYS OLD DEBT

Woman, Seeking Place in 'Heaven,' Sends Check.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(INS)—A local department store recently received full payment of an $80.20 debt that had been charged as a loss for the past 12 years. A woman submitted the money in the form of a check with a note attached, explaining that "Father Divine would not permit me to enter Heaven until I had been freed of all my just debts."

HERE TO STAY

Autos Won't Go So Town Takes Down Hitching Posts.

LA GRANDE, Ore. —(INS)— Union county today appeared convinced that the automobile is here to stay. The county removed cement hitching posts and their connecting chains which had stood for about 40 years in front of the county courthouse for the use of persons who came to town on horseback or in buggies.

GOATS TO HAUL IOWA FARMER TO NEW YORK WORLD'S FAIR

KESWICK, Ia. — Charlie McCartney, 40-year-old Iowan, who farms 20 acres four miles southwest of here, is going to attend the New York World's Fair.

That's not unusual.

But—they're going to make the 1,150-mile trip in a homemade wagon drawn by two eight-goat teams.

The venture, if it is successful, will be a much greater achievement than the horsedrawn wagon trip Charlie made to Chicago for the Century of Progress in 1936.

That trip took him 18 days. He plans to allow himself 100 days for the New York trip, although he believes his goat teams can cover 20 miles a day.

McCartney is not certain just what he will do when and if he arrives in New York. He stayed in Chicago during the 1936 fair for three months. He was paid $100 a month and given horse feed. He helped pay his expenses by selling postcard pictures of himself and his rig, which was a made-over automobile body.

The McCartneys live in a nondescript house, which Charlie built himself. Using his goat teams, he hauled lumber for the house, ten miles. He spurns tractors and horses for his farm work, preferring to use goat teams. He breaks them to drive himself and also makes all their harness and his farm implements.

McCartney describes the goats as "the meanest things that ever was." He insists "you have to work them to death." He once had 45 goats, but the dogs reduced their number to 18.

He wears his hair, as well as his beard, long. On rare occasions he cuts it. Because of his eccentricities, McCartney has many visitors. He greets them with hospitality, points to his turnip, potato and pop corn crops with pride.

Pre-Holiday Food Markets Crowded With Fruit, Nuts

Filling Christmas stockings will be no task at all with the abundance of fruit and nuts that are now crowding the pre-holiday markets. Both California oranges and grapefruit, white and pink grapefruit, tangerines, kumquats, yellow and red bananas and English walnuts, pecans, almonds and chestnuts are already available for special treats.

Then there are cranberries, three varieties of grapes, avocados, pears, apples and pineapples to tempt the palate. The usual deluge of fresh green and root vegetables also are on the markets for the Saturday shopper.

Included are lettuce, cabbage, endive, radishes, spinach, mustard greens, Brussel sprouts, okra, tomatoes, peas, green, wax and lima beans and Pascal celery.

Other vegetables available are potatoes, parsnips, parsley and celery root, squash, cucumbers, green onions, turnips, carrots and beets.

ASKS COURT ORDER TO PERMIT HIM TO VISIT FARM HE LEASED

W. H. Sorgen, 260 North Main street, filed suit today in common pleas court asking for an order to permit him to visit his own 60-acre farm in Bloominggrove township.

Sorgen brought the action against Geo. Myers, who lives on the farm and allegedly locked the gates to keep Sorgen off the property. Myers leased the farm for one year last March, the petition states.

Sorgen also asks an injunction to restrain Myers from cutting live timber on the farm and pasturing fields, which he has been doing in violation of an agreement, the petition charges. Sorgen is represented by Atty. A. S. Beach.

SCARES FARMERS

Weird Scream Found to Be That of Cougar.

SPRINGWATER, Ore.—(INS)—A weird scream reported by farmers in this section today was identified tentatively as the cry of an aged and toothless cougar by the forest ranger corp. The cry first was reported by a farmer who heard it in the woods at night, and the same spine-tingling shriek was reported by several other persons shortly afterward.

Stomach Gas No Longer Keeps Mansfield Man Awake at Night

Retired Contractor now eats hearty meals, everything digests well, sleeps like a log, also enjoys other benefits since Vendol relieved bad case of constipation.

MR. CHARLES CASHELL

Is there anything more distressing than a sour, acid, gassy stomach which sends one running for a dose of soda to get relief? People who suffer like this, because constipation has upset their digestion, should visit the Vendol Man at Central Drug Store, Cor. Main and 4th Sts., without delay and learn what Vendol has done to relieve so many home town people who were tortured the same way for years.

Mr. Charles Cashell of 196 S. Franklin St., Mansfield, a well known retired Contractor, tells as follows, how Vendol helped him after so many other things he tried had failed: "It was certainly discouraging to be hungry, eat a hearty meal and soon thereafter feel your stomach grumbling, to feel so full and bloated you could hardly get your breath.

"This gas was so bad sometimes that it made my stomach feel swollen, would keep me awake and I'd feel like I was smothering. Then too I often felt dizzy, spots danced before my eyes, my tongue was coated and I'd awaken with a bad taste in my mouth and feeling tired, listless, and nervous.

"A few weeks ago, I began taking Vendol and the first dose started my bowels acting and soon gave the grandest relief I'd known from constipation and now I never have the indigestion, gas, sourness, or shortness of breath as I used to. It's simply grand to sit down to a tasty meal, eat my fill, and never suffer afterwards. I can eat whatever I like and not be kept awake by gas, then get up in the morning without a headache or dizzy feeling, and really feel refreshed after a good night's rest.

"I feel wonderful since taking Vendol and am sure this great medicine will help everyone with the same troubles."

Why delay? Come to Central Drug Store, Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., and give this splendid, Root, Herb and Alkaline medicine a chance to help you too. Let the Vendol Man explain all about it. There is no charge. Vendol is sold by most all leading druggists.

GIVEN TROPHY

Ohio Fuel Gas Receives Award for Safety Record.

The National Safety council today awarded to the Ohio Fuel Gas company a trophy for establishing the best safety record among its employes in competition with all other large gas companies, W. C. Mead, district manager, announced.

The company had only four lost-time accidents during the year ending June 30 among 3,100 regular and 700 seasonal employes.

Mead said the accident frequency rate was only 6 per cent of the average for all companies in the same classification. During the contest the company's employes worked two separate periods of more than 2,000,000 man-hours each without a single disabling accident.

Recognition of the company's record was made at the National Safety Congress in Chicago last month. The trophy is to be displayed at the firm's general offices in Columbus.

HERROLD NAMED SUNDAY SCHOOL HEAD 32ND YEAR

South Main Superintendent Was First Elected in '07; Other Officers Chosen;

Will G. Herrold, superintendent of the Sunday school at the South Main Street Evangelical church, was re-elected for the 32nd consecutive year at the annual congregational meeting last night.

Herrold was first chosen superintendent in 1907 when the Sunday school had an attendance of 22. At present the average attendance is 403, an increase of 69 over last year's average.

Two associate superintendents, Clarence F. Wolf and Everett Tingley, also were re-elected by the congregation. Wolf was named for the 18th consecutive year and Tingley for the fourth year.

Others Elected.

Other officers chosen are Fred Ridenour, treasurer; Dean Robinson, secretary; Harold Worner and Harold Mumford, assistant secretaries; Mrs. Hazel Dovenbarger, children's division superintendent; Harold Ramsey, young peoples superintendent, and L. C. Hughes, adult superintendent.

The offices of chorister, pianist and librarian are appointed by the Sunday school board and will be named at a later date, Herrold said.

Church officers elected are F. O Haldeman, assistant class leader, and Lewis Campbell and C. L. Britton, trustees for three-year terms each.

Due to the increased Sunday school attendance, the need for more room, and possibility of building an addition to the present church building were discussed at the meeting. The question was referred to the official board for consideration.

Rev. C L. Kern, pastor, presided at the meeting.

COUNTY FIGHTS WHITE PLAGUE

Michigan Community Opens Way for All to Take T. B. Examinations.

VASSAR, Mich.—A new experiment in tuberculosis control is being conducted in Tuscola county.

The program provides for a tuberculin test of every man, woman and child in the county. It is being sponsored by the Tuscola County Medical society, with funds provided by the county board of supervisors.

Authorities believe it is one of the largest mass control programs ever attempted. Its results are being watched by national authorities.

The first phase of the program provided for test of all children. Ninety-five per cent of the children in Vassar township have been tested and the campaign is being extended to rural districts.

The second phase of the drive is being started. It provides for test of every adult. Tests are given four nights a week by the medical society. Efforts of the press to publicize the campaign have increased hopes that the campaign eventually will be 100 per cent.

The results will be watched for a period of years. Within a decade, officials hope, the disease will be under control in this area.

A survey by the State Tuberculosis Association revealed that in 90 per cent of all cases, the disease was well advanced before the victims were aware of it. By the tests, medical authorities hope to be able to stamp out the disease in its early stages, and eventually to be able to prevent it ever from going beyond the first stages.

ASHLAND—In a suit brought in common pleas court by Mrs. Fanny Polsky, it is charged that her husband lost $3,000 gambling at the Loudonville Fraternal Order of Eagles' aerie. Aerie 22725, Fraternal Order of Eagles, George Randles, Walter Carpenter and all other officers and members of the aerie and the Farmers and Savings bank are the defendants.

The plaintiff's petition says that the money was won by hazard and chance from her husband since Jan. 1, 1938. A temporary injunction has been filed restraining the lodge from disposing or encumbering any money or property.

Sydney Man Gives Birds Cotton for 'Homes.'

SYDNEY — (INS) — Sparrows in Sydney's Hyde park will have de luxe nests next spring. They will be lined with cotton wool. The supply of luxury nest material comes from W H. EARLY RICHLAND FAIR EXPECTED AGAIN IN 1939

Recommendation to Hold Expo in July Due Tomorrow When Board Hears '38 Report.

A recommendation that the Richland county fair be held in July again next year is expected to be submitted to directors of the Richland County Agricultural society when they meet at 1:30 p. m. Saturday at the courthouse to elect six members to the board and hear reports of the 1938 fair.

H. H. Wolf, president of the board, and A. W. Strater, treasurer, said they favored an early fair next year and understood that the majority of the directors were in accord with the plan.

1938 Fair Best in 10 Years.

Strater said the financial report of the fair board would show that the 1938 exposition was more successful financially than any in the past 10 years, although it did not show a profit.

"We should almost break even, and that's more than our fairs have done in recent years," he said.

The fair was moved up to July this year, making it the first in Ohio.

Directors whose terms expire this year are Wolf, Strater, R. D Hale, Mansfield; J. J. Cline, Bloominggrove township; Morell Enzor, Butler township, and Howard Johnson, Bellville.

The society has 22 directors who are elected for three-year terms Officers will be elected in January for one year

PLAN 'TAX STRIKE' AS PROTEST AGAINST FLOOD DISTRICT LEVY

With only a small part of Richland county included in the Muskingum Conservancy district, county taxpayers were not expected to join in the "tax strike" mass meeting scheduled for Dec. 14 at Newcomerstown.

Pointing out that less than a score of property owners in the county will have to pay the tax, attaches of the county auditor's and treasurer's offices said today they had heard of no protests against the conservancy assessment which will be collected with the real estate tax in January.

Most of the Richland county assessments will be paid by public utilities and the county itself as holders of large parcels in the southeastern part of the county, which is in the flood control district.

Congressman William A Ashbrook of the 17th district and U. S. Senator Vic Donahey are among the legislators who have been invited to attend the mass meeting where taxpayers will discuss plans for a protest "strike." Senator Donahey suggested the "strike" last spring when protests were made.

Dr. H B. Kistler, president of the Tax Defense league, organized to fight the assessments, indicated property owners would be urged to offer real estate taxes, bank them if they are refused, and let the district go without any taxes. District officials have ruled that unless the conservancy tax is paid, property holders cannot pay their real estate tax.

A possibility was seen that congress might appropriate the $4,500,000 authorized at the last session to reduce the assessments in the district from 50 to 25 per cent of the appraised benefit.

Davey Considering Mrs. Hahn's Appeal for Clemency

POISON KILLER PRAYS, PLEADS FOR HER SON

Governor to Rule on Plea for Life Sentence Next Week; Death Day Wednesday.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Whether blond Anna Marie Hahn becomes the first woman to die in Ohio penitentiary's electric chair or receives a commutation to life imprisonment apparently will be decided by Gov. Martin L. Davey next week on the basis of a report being prepared today from testimony at a three and one-half hour clemency hearing.

Daniel S. Earhart, Davey's executive secretary who conducted the crucial hearing yesterday, said he would submit the report and his recommendations on the condemned poison slayer's fate to the governor upon the latter's return here from a week-end trip.

Reprieve Question Out.

Governor Davey has said he would decide from the report by Dec. 7, the day of the 32-year-old mother's scheduled execution, whether to commute her sentence. He has previously declared that there would be no reprieve and no pardon for the convicted poisoner of Jacob Wagner, 78-year-old Cincinnati gardener.

"I hope and pray everything will turn out all right for the sake of the boy," said Mrs. Hahn when her 12-year-old son, Oscar, visited her for an hour and a half in "death row" after appearing at the hearing.

The shy youth testified from the witness stand that "she's been as good a mother as there is," and that he was positive of her innocence.

Joseph H. Hoodin, chief of Mrs. Hahn's defense counsel, pictured the Bavarian-born woman as "innocent or insane" and pleaded at the hearing that her life be spared.

Hamilton County Prosecutor Carl Rich expressed sympathy at the hearing for Oscar but described Mrs. Hahn as a "mass murderess" who deserved no mercy and urged that clemency be denied.

A jury of 11 women and one man found Mrs. Hahn guilty of Wagner's death only but testimony was introduced purporting to link her with the mysterious deaths of three other elderly Germans in what the state described as a "murder-for-profit" scheme.

Bans News Chain From Death Chamber

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Mrs. Margaret Allman, state welfare director, today ordered Warden J. C. Woodard of the Ohio penitentiary to bar "anyone in the employ of the Columbus Citizen, or any Scripps Howard newspaper or agency, or agency in any way connected with the Scripps Howard newspapers in this or any other city" from witnessing the scheduled execution of Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn.

Mrs. Allman said she issued the order because the Columbus Citizen printed a story to the effect that she was seldom in her offices.

The Touchdown club, comprised of Mansfield business and professional men who meet at lunch daily to "solve" football problems, left their favorite subject long enough yesterday to get into a heated bowling argument. The argument resulted in challenges and to the pin plant they went. And the Touchdown club champion today is Howard Hosler. Hosler, who hadn't had a bowling ball in his hands for more than five years, rolled a 212 and a 233 in the two-game match, topping it off with seven straight strikes in the last game. Dr. Harry Knox, Emerson Weller and Lydon Beam, bowled, too. Two physicians accompanied the bowlers to the alley in case of emergency.

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Cargegie-Illinois Steel corporation, largest subsidiary of the U. S. Steel corporation and traditional pacemaker for the industry, reaffirmed today existing prices for the first quarter of 1939.

NEW DELAY HITS TRIAL FOR AULT

Judge Postpones Hearing as Prosecutor, Defense Fail to Agree on Date.

(By Associated Press)

MT. VERNON—Trial of Ivan R. Ault, state highway director, on a charge of soliciting political campaign funds from civil service employes, appeared today to have been delayed indefinitely. It was scheduled to start next Monday.

Common Pleas Judge Philip H. Wieland of Mt. Gilead, who will preside at the case by assignment, said he would attempt to arrange a trial date satisfactory to Prosecutor A. Ross Siverling of Ashland county and F. D. Schell of Ashland, Ault's attorney.

Siverling said he had been informed the trial had been postponed until Jan. 3 and threatened to seek a change of venue to another county to obtain a speedy trial. Judge Wieland said, however, no date had been set.

Ault, while serving as highway division engineer at Ashland, was accused of soliciting money for Gov. Martin L. Davey's unsuccessful primary campaign. Ault was promoted to highway director following the resignation of John J. Jaster, jr.

The trial was moved from Ashland to Mt. Vernon at the request of Ault's attorneys.

INDIAN KILLS WOMAN, WOUNDS 5 OTHERS, THEN SURRENDERS

(By United Press)

VANCOUVER, B. C.—An Indian who ran amuck, killed one woman, bludgeoned four others and a man, and spread terror through the city, surrendered quietly today.

He was George Wallace, 37, a Siwash released Nov. 5 from Chilliwak prison, where he was sent for slugging and robberies.

His victims were Mrs. Mary Hawthorne, 35, an Indian, who was killed; Mrs. A. Shephard, 45, her daughter, Betty, 25; Dorothy Hawthorne, 16, Mrs. Emma Killeen, 40, and Dan Kujwan, 50.

Wallace went beserk yesterday in the cabin of Kujwan in the poorer part of town. He grabbed an automobile axle and crushed Mrs. Hawthorne's skull. Kujwan was struck and left unconscious.

Meanwhile Wallace appeared at the apartment occupied by Mrs. Hawthorne and her daughter. He demanded that the girl go out with him. She refused and he swung the heavy steel axle at her. It hit a glancing blow and the girl rolled under a bed.

Mrs. Killeen, a white woman who answered the girl's screams for help, ran in and was felled by a blow on the head.

Mrs. Shephard and her daughter were returning home through Clark park after dark when Wallace sprang out from behind a band stand and clipped them. He was using a heavy piece of wood.

Later he was taken on the street without resistance.

JAIL BUCKNER IN FANTASTIC MART SCHEME

Police Arrest Him, Dash Trip to Hollywood for Hoped for Marriage to Actress.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Instead of flying to the arms of a film actress he claims to be his fiancee, William P. Buckner, 31-year-old scion of a wealthy family, faces arraignment with a Brooklyn broker today on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Arrest of Buckner, nephew of Thomas A. Buckner who is chairman of the New York Life Insurance company, and William J. Gillespie, 37, climaxed an investigation launched last October by the securities and exchange commission into the sudden rise and fall of bonds of the Philippine Railway company.

'Chorus Girl Lobby.'

After arresting Buckner as he stepped from the liner Queen Mary, Assistant U. S. Attorney William Maloney sketched a story of how Broadway chorus girls were used as Washington lobbyists as part of an alleged high-pressure scheme to swing a profitable bond deal. Maloney charged that Buckner and Gillespie had spread false "inside information" last January that caused a trading flurry in Philippine Railway company bonds in Wall Street and similar activity on foreign exchanges. The sudden rise was followed by an abrupt drop that saw purchasers of the securities lose more than a million dollars, Maloney asserted.

"This is all a misunderstanding," insisted Buckner whose father and two other uncles hold responsible positions in the New York Life Insurance company.

Buckner's friends revealed that he claimed to be engaged to movie actress Loretta Young and had planned dashing by plane to her side today.

Later officials disclosed he telephoned the actress "hello baby, it doesn't mean a thing." The conversation concluded with Buckner promising:

"I'll be out to see you soon."

(Miss Young in Hollywood admitted knowing Buckner "very well," was surprised by his arrest, but declined to comment on reports they were to be married. The actress was visibly upset by Buckner's arrest and said she intended to see him "if and as soon as" he goes to Hollywood.)

FAIR ENOUGH!

Which Crime Has Worse Effect in a Community—Murder or Vicious Graft?

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—This one is going to look like a man trying to pitch ball with a handful of feathers, because the subject is very loose and scattery. It refers to the sentence of 139 years imposed on a nasty little maniac named Robert Irwin, who killed three persons, and the question whether he got a bargain in escaping the electric chair.

Some say this and some say that, but I will attempt to say that people in this country have centered their attention and resentment on the dramatic crime of murder to the neglect and condonation on anothery type of crime which is just as bad as murder in its effect on the safety of the community. I am inching up to the subject of graft and corruption in public office and the suppression of the liberties of the people by local dictators.

* * *

It isn't only the cash cost to the taxpayers that makes graft a grave crime, because, whether a man steals from individuals or from masses of individuals, that is only larceny, after all. But when his thieving whether by actual tapping of the till, which is a crude method practiced only by poor, dumb dopes, or by subtler methods, deprives the people of improvements and services and brings their government into popular contempt he is a dangerous enemy of the people's liberties and the safety of the country.

I suppose that is rather high sounding, but if so that is just too bad and just goes to show how tolerant we are of this kind of crime. I shall tell you why I think it is so dangerous.

* * *

It sabotages the operations of democracy and brings people to the point of toying with the idea that maybe they would be better off under a dictatorship, which is another way of saying that it discredits the American system of government.

They get into the habit of thinking that every second, third or fourth dollar of public money is earmarked for the grafters by a tradition having almost the force and dignity of law, and in time they may develop a what-the-hell attitude and a conviction that democracy is just a wall motto and not a system.

It would be easy to mention names of men who should have gotten death—or, anyway, life—for public thievery in New York, Chicago, Jersey City, Louisiana, Pennsylvania and Connecticut, but I have to watch out for libel, because most of them have never even been indicted, much less convicted, but any informed resident of those communities will find the names springing up to his tongue. If a few such criminals had gotten death—or, anyway, life—a long time back the more recent generation of thieves would never have entered politics at all, because it would have been an honest profession and thus unsuited to their talents and unattractive to their nature.

* * *

Suppose, for example, that in Chicago some thieving county officials whose perfidy not only increased the people's tax burden but hampered the efficiency of their government had been hanged in the old county jail, say 30 years ago. Or suppose he had just gotten life but hadn't been paroled and had been compelled to stay in Joliet until he died.

And let me assume also that similar lessons had been given in various other communities early in the game as a warning to public servants that any crime against the public trust tending to sabotage the democratic system would be regarded as an attack on the democratic liberties of the citizens.

* * *

I think that had this been done we could today have a much higher standard of honesty in politics in office and that the people, in their hearts, would have a much stronger love for and appreciation of their liberties. But, as it is, I am afraid the people regard such crimes as mere mischief inherent in democracy and would be shocked at the very suggestion that a criminal politician, guilty of jeopardizing their liberties by crippling their government, is comparable in evil to a murderous nut who killed three persons. The citizens of this country seem to believe that the good old democratic system can support forever any burden of graft, willful impairment and discredit that can be loaded upon it. In this sense they connive at the attack on the democratic system and their own liberties, which vanish when the system at last collapses into one or the other of the dirty European isms.

Homer Cummings and Edgar Hoover, with the help of the press, have changed the attitude of the whole country toward the hoodlums who for a long time were glamorized in the public imagination. They are now regarded as rodent enemies of society, but the thieving, grafting, sabotaging politician and officeholder is still honored as a sort of Robin Hood.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The lady off to the side of the house muttering to the screen at any Joan Crawford previews is—Joan Crawford.

"I make a nuisance of myself. I talk to myself on the screen all the time. Mostly I'm saying, 'O, you fool! Why did you do it that way? How could you have thought that was the way to play the scene?' I'm one of those horrible people that others sitting nearby have to shush. . . ."

Thus Miss Crawford, on a day between scenes of one picture, preparing for the ordeal of attending the preview of her finished one. She is sitting on a movie bed in an unoccupied set, and she's knitting. She keeps her eyes riveted to every stitch, like an amateur although she isn't one, but once in a while she raises them and they're the biggest eyes in town.

Once in a while, too, and more frequently, she raises herself and gets into the scene where Reinhold Schunzel (they call him Papa) is directing her and James Stewart and Lew Ayres in "Ice Follies."

* * *

Joan has been gay all morning, singing a little in that new voice of hers—and good, too!—and laughing a lot with the others at the things that go wrong. This scene has her carried over the threshold of the room by Stewart, whom she's just married at Yuma, and it shows how Ayres, Stewart's ice partner, takes it.

By afternoon, when they've done that scene in long shots and close-ups at least a dozen times, with rehearsals extra, I get to thinking innocently that those actors must be pretty bored with it all. Especially Joan, who's been making scenes like that—well, not exactly—for 13 years now.

"Well, no," says Joan. "I love making pictures—they're something alive and vital—and this is all part of making pictures. Maybe if I hadn't grown up in it I'd go mad. Anyway, knitting helps between takes. Can't read on the set—it takes my mind off my work. I get that in Sunday. . . ."

* * *

At 30, Joan has a new seven-year contract, without options—and that makes her different from all the other stars who try for comebacks. They don't have contracts. Officially, Joan isn't "coming back." Officially, she's still a big star—but all the same her last few pictures haven't been old-time "Crawford hits."

Her singing—which won her the new term deal—is going to be heard in "Ice Follies." Just popular numbers, no operatic stuff. The role also calls for glamor, which was Crawford's stock in trade. She winds up, in this one, as a Hollywood movie star, so the part ought to fit like a girdle.

The opera business will have to wait a while. ("I practice every morning, but I haven't enough time really to give to it yet.")

In "The Shining Hour" Joan was cast with Margaret Sullavan. Hollywood expected a conflagration of temperaments. Just wait (said Hollywood) until THOSE TWO get together.

"We disappointed them," says Joan. "We met, and hit it off together from the start. We've seen each other several times since the picture, and I like her very much and she likes me—at least I think she likes me. . . ."

Roving Eye Will Spoil Marriage

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Does your sweetheart have a wandering eye for every girl he meets? If you take him to call on a girl chum, does he go out of his way to show all his pretty parlor tricks and try to charm her right before your eyes? When he takes you to movie, does he look at every girl within range of his roving glance? Has he had lots of sweethearts before he avowed his love for you? Is he one of those perennial 'steadies?" Has he a couple of broken engagements in his past? Has he, perhaps, all the makings of a philanderer?

Please remember, then, that these "triflers with women," as the dictionary calls them, are born not made. The genuine philanderer is absolutely incurable, a play boy with hearts. He can no more help his amorous trifling than a whip-poor-will can help its distracting call.

If you recognize these symptoms in your sweetheart, better kiss the boy goodbye. If you marry a philanderer, in the hope of reforming him, you will have a combination headache and heartache on your hands until the end of your days, for this type, being a trifler, is incapable of genuine love. With him, it's anyone and everyone.

Some wives who write to this column about philandering husbands confide in me they have learned to wink at the perpetual skirt-chasing. But whether wives wink or take to hysterics, butterfly husbands are the greatest menace to a happy home. If the young man in whom you are interested has a roving eye, let me beg of you with all the vehemence at my command, leave him for someone who has a martyr complex.

* * *

For the past two years I've known a certain girl, and have taken her out a good many times, and just discovered that I'm in love with her. She works here in the same city with me, but her home is about three hundred miles away. She goes home every summer, and this past summer promised to marry the boy friend she had, back home.

However, she professes to be in love with me. She says although she has promised to marry him, she loves me, but I am in no position to marry, as I have no money, nor a good enough job to support a wife. And she says she's going to keep her promise to this other man.

Please tell me what to do, and whether or not I ought to persuade her she ought to marry me.

WORRIED.

The idea of promising to marry one man while being in love with another, is very sad. Such a girl is not keeping faith with either man or herself. Some girls, to soften the blow and get out of a difficult situation, say they will "always love" a certain man when they intend to marry someone else.

If a girl is in love with one man, why does she marry someone else? Take a brace. The world is full of charming girls, who will treat you better than that, if you just look around for them.

A good way to utilize stale bread is to make crisp rusks to eat with butter and cheese. Break up the bread into fairly equal sizes, dip into a little sweetened milk, and bake in a warm oven until dry and crisp.

You'll think it's magic, the way these new electric roasters cook the food to a king's taste every time. They bake, roast, boil, fry, broil, stew—every cooking operation. And you can cook an entire meal in one.

For Harmony

Convenient and ample storage space for the men folks' sports material will promote household harmony. Build racks, wide shelves and deep drawers to hold all the equipment. Nail stout hooks on wide boards fastened to the wall for fishing tackle, oars, boots and other cherished possessions.

Night-Sewing Help

If you do much sewing at night, a bridge lamp with arm extended right over your sewing will give you the best light. A shade of off-white or pale amber gives the most restful light.

Use For Pretzels

Pretzel crumbs make a tasty covering for small cheese balls served with salads or an appetizers. Freshen the pretzels by heating five minutes in a moderately hot oven. Cool and then roll into crumbs.

Helpful hints: Lemons soaked ten minutes in warm water will yield more juice than unsoaked lemons. To clean out a burnt pan, add one teaspoon of soda to each cup of water needed to fill the pan, cover and simmer twenty minutes. If some egg yolks get into whites while you're separating them, remove them with a piece of the shell. To keep a bowl steady while using a beater or mixer set it on a cloth on the table.

Mustard pickles are excellent with corned beef, whether the beef is served alone or in partnership with cabbage.

Wife Preservers

A mere man suggests that women use basketball players' knee guards while doing their scrubbing. They beat the old pillow all hollow, says he.

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"No, you wouldn't," I told her firmly, and with a hint of sternness in my manner. "You're going through with this no matter what comes."

"Then what's the matter with getting started?" she asked with an uneasy glance at the telephone, as if she expected it to begin ringing at any second.

"Nothing at all," I said, and Miss Whitlock moved to the desk and put her hand upon the telephone.

"Just a second," she said. "Before I call for the taxi and the bell boy, don't you think the manager will think it queer for me to go out of the hotel with luggage and return with none?"

"I meant to tell you about that," I said. "Act very hurried and perturbed when you return. Complain a bit perhaps about my thoughtlessness. Say that I sent you ahead to the station with the luggage because we wanted to stop at a department store on onr way, and didn't want to be troubled with our bags while shopping."

Calls For Cab.

"That's very plausible," she assented, "and I'll try to make it convincing. Shall I telephone now?

"Please!" I said, and she put through the call for the taxi and the bell boy. When she had hung up the receiver, I looked at her with a smile.

"Isn't there anything else you'd like to ask me?" I queried.

"Plenty," she said, returning the smile, "but I don't want to bother you now.."

"I think you ought to know now where we're really going," I said, "but I haven't time to tell you here. But I'll give you all the information you need when we meet at the station. We'll have plenty of time then, for we're not taking a train."

"I thought not," she said. Then a knock sounded on the door, and she admitted the bell boy who took up the luggage and told her that the taxi was ready.

Mary and I had retreated to my bedroom when he knocked, so that he did not see us at all. But when the door closed upon the nurse. Mary gave a suppressed, little whoop of impatience.

"How long must we wait before we go down?" she asked.

"Five minutes," I told her inexorably, looking at my wrist watch. "She must be well away from the hotel before we start."

"I suppose I can stand the strain," she said whimsically.

"Time to go, dear," I said, rising, and then, as if a malevolent devil had inspired it, the telephone rang.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

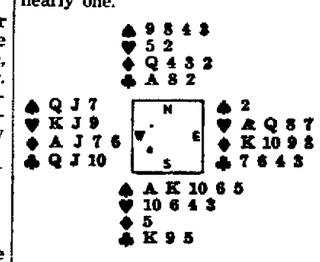
"The Authority on Authorities"

CONSIDER YOUR TASK

Your plan of play depends partly upon the height of the contract. What would be the sole possible chance to make a three spade contract may be utterly wrong when you are playing for only two spades. Then you may be able to sacrifice a trick on a safety play which makes the success of the contract a sure thing or very nearly one.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South bid 1-Spade on this deal. West passed and North bid 2-Spades, which ended the bidding.

West led the club Q, which declarer won. He then cashed two rounds of trumps. Next came a heart lead. West won and then cashed the spade Q. As a result, South lost three heart tricks, a diamond, a club and a trump.

Declarer should have attempted to set up hearts before drawing trumps. Had he played that way, he would have lost only two hearts and a trick in each of the other suits.

Had he been playing for a 3-Spade contract his procedure was correct, as finding the trumps divided was the only possible chance to make his contract. As the cards lay, he would have gone down two, however.

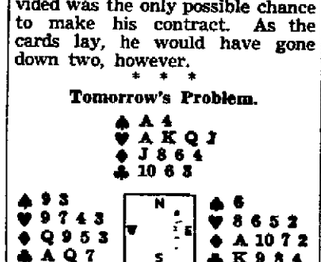
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

What is the correct defense against South's contract of 4-Spades?

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

I REMEMBER telling you all about the wonderful time we had at the play, but I didn't get the opportunity to tell you about myself. Well, Bill and I have reconciled! So here I am, with a brand new business career and my beau back again.

I just had a feeling that things would happen on the night of Consuelo's show. Well, Bill looked grand in his new dress clothes and he has never been nicer. Everyone admired him so and I just had to admit that he was something extra special.

Although we were together all evening, it wasn't until we were well into the big party, after the show, that he was able to get me into a corner by himself. He picked out a nice spot, too, a little alcove in the winter garden with a fountain, flowers and singing birds in gilded cages. He was very frank and said that he had been definitely in the wrong, that he had learned how fearful is the price one pays for an unwarranted outburst of jealous rage, and how unhappy he had been through the years. It was really the first frank talk we had ever had.

Go On As Before.

We talked things over and recided to go as we were before, but with no definite date for marriage in mind. But, somewhow, I think if things go well, we'll be married next autumn. Why so long? Well, I want to set myself first in my work and I want to have some money saved up. There's nothing like money troubles for destroying marital happiness. After all, I've been used to nice things all through the years, and I want to keep on having them.

I am so happy about everything. It's strange how sometimes in life everything is dark, one feels walled in, and then, suddenly, a door opens and the sunlight of happiness streams in, and there stretched before one is the wondrous world. Well, that's just how I feel these days. Everything was dull, just routine, when suddenly I get a marvelous job, and now I'm deep in romance again.

I'd like to take a long walk in the country and wear this smart coat. But it is good for casual town wear, too. The fabric is water-proofed and has a vague plaid in green and blue on a deep bordeaux red ground. The coat is fitted to the waist and the skirt has a slight flare. It has horizontal pockets in one with seaming at the breast and two slanting slit pockets at hips. It's warm enough for a real cold day.

To prepare a new aluminum griddle for use, first wash well in warm water and soap suds and remove any labels. The griddle is hot enough on a gas range when a small piece of paper placed on top will brown. Lower the heat and start baking. For the electric stove, preheat the griddle four minutes, then lower the heat and start baking. Cakes often stick if the griddle is too hot. Wash the griddle after it has been used in plenty of hot soapy water and wipe perfectly dry before storing.

Different Suggestions For Holiday

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

WHILE the recipes today have been mostly selected with an eye to the holiday board, there are many, we are sure, that will find favor when there is a demand for something a little different.

First off come some grand dressings, starting with an oyster dressing that is really tasty. It calls for two cups bread cubes, one cup cracker crumbs, two cups oysters with liquor, teaspoon poultry seasoning, one-quarter cup diced celery, two tablespoons butter, one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Combine ingredients and mix well. If oyster liquor is not sufficient to moisten bread cubes, add meat stock of warm water. Use as stuffing or place in a greased dish and bake for 30 minutes in a 350 F. oven. It serves six.

Then here's an onion dressing that is also very tasty. It calls for six onions, two cups bread cubes, one-quarter teaspoon celery salt, one-half cup water, two teaspoons poultry seasoning, one-quarter cup chopped celery, teaspoon salt. Fry onions in one tablespoon butter until brown. Add remaining items and mix thoroughly. Use as stuffing or place in greased baking dish and bake 35 minutes in 350 F. oven. It's yield is one quart. It serves six.

A Holiday Dish.

Egg noodle ring with fried apples is a nice holiday dish because it is different, yet just the sort of thing for this time of year. It needs a package of egg noodles, one-quarter teaspoon black pepper, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, teaspoon salt, one-quarter cup melted butter, two jars cottage cheese, four or five apples and two tablespoons brown sugar. Cook fine egg noodles as directed, and drain. Add seasonings, two tablespoons butter and cheese. Blend carefully with a fork. Put mixture into well-buttered ring mold and reheat in hot water. Core and slice apples and fry in remaining butter. Springle with brown sugar, cover and cook for two minutes. Turn out molded egg noodles on hot platter and fill with fried apples.

Here is a sauce that is delicious over puddings or sponge cake, or as a jelly roll filling—quite a versatile affair, we think. It requires one cup each brown sugar and white sugar, one teaspoon each salt and nutmeg, two tablespoons flour, two cups water and two tablespoons butter. Mix together the sugars, salt and spice. Add two cups boiling water gradually, stirring constantly, and cook until sauce is thick and smooth. All the butter, stir well and serve at once.

Candles

Never include candles on the dining room table service unless they are to be used to supply needed light. Light them just before the guests enter.

Double-Decker

Have you ever tried double-decker hamburgers? Make the hamburgers in the regular way and then put two together with a filling made of chopped onions and catsup.

For a change, cook spaghetti or noodles in a ring mold. Steam or bake until the ring will stay together; unmold and fill and surround with chili con carne, cream cheese sauce or chop suey.

By VERA WINSTON

THE SMARTEST women are banking heavily on the high-necked, long-sleeved dinner dress to see them through a season of informal dinners. These dresses are severely smart, in strong contrast to the deep decollete evening frocks that also are popular. This gracious model is of midnight blue velvet and has high neck, long sleeves and a bodice that accentuates the waistline, tying as it does in a knot. The sash is set in. The V-shaped section, from under the arm to the waist, drapes slightly where it meets the sash. The embroidery, which is of gold cord, is used in decorative stripes on the sleeves and across the neck.

Lamb For Salad

Diced cooked lamb mixed with diced celery and minced parsley makes a tasty filling for mint gelatin salad. Serve on lettuce and top with boiled dressing or mayonnaise.

Apple stuffing is just the thing for roast duck. Add a cup of coarsely chopped apples to your regular stuffing recipe and include two extra tablespoons of butter to season the apples. Prunes added to bread stuffing is a good recipe for goose.

Arms Should Get Some Attention

By MME. QUI VIVE.

Consider the things that can be wrong with arms. A grey skin surface, one that is speckled with gooseflesh, or a cutaneous covering that carries freckles all the year round put arms completely out of the picture. Skin should be creamy-white and satin smooth. It will get that way with a little care.

Consider the varied contour of the arms. Some are too skinny, some too fat, others are too heavy at the top to be in proportion with the forearms. Exercise will correct all that. Cross your arms, clasp the left hand on the right forearm and visa versa. Pull with might and man, slowly lifting the arms until they are on a line with your eyes. This easy exercise will develop poor muscles, making thin arms fuller, and it will stretch and expand fat cells to such an extent that they'll go off and die.

* * *

Fill the wash bowl with fairly hot water. With soap and a heavy bath brush give the arms a rousing scouring. Work diligently on the elbows. Since you never see them they don't worry you, but many elbows are coarse grained and dingy looking. Be vigorous with the brush so that dead skin scales will be loosened and removed. Rinse with tepid water and dry.

Apply cocoanut oil, palming it in from wrist to shoulder and back again. Clasp the fingers around the arms, go skipping upward from the wrist with a round and round movement. Follow with a brisk slapping.

* * *

Be generous with the oil. Use it freely. Fill a tin salt shaker with almond meal, sprinkle it on the creamed surface, forming a pack.

Here's where you must have help. Get someone to wring large turkish towels out of steaming hot water, wrap them around your arms. The effect of cream, meal and moist heat will delight you. The fomentations should be continued for ten minutes. Use the moist towels to remove the pack.

Dry gently, fluff on talcum powder.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Dec. 3.

THE ASPECTS of the moon on this day are somewhat conflicting, promising, on the one hand, benefits, lucrative change, increase in finance and expanding opportunities, on the other, quarrels, tumult, disturbance and probable violence. All this might be precipitated through reckless acts, fiery speech, overaggressive or enthusiastic activities. With proper restraint and moderation there should be surprising benefits in new projects, through speculation or important change.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of conflicting adventures, with fine promise for new opportunities, progress, bold projects or important financial deals. But these should not be jeopardized by recklessness, haste, excitement, quarrels or impetuosity. Calm and well-planned details should prove definitely constructive and worthwhile. Speculation is encouraged.

A child born on this day may be progressive, enterprising and courageous, having excellent chances for success. But it may have the handicap of a rash, tempestuous and overaggressive temperament to undermine its success.

CHAPTER 12

When they drifted back to the big living room, however, the pianist began banging an irresistible dance rhythm. The girl nearest Dr. Holgate instantly started swaying her shoulders and body and humming a little, and in quite natural, routine manner moved in front of him and put her arm around him, waiting for him to dance away with her. Three other couples glided off in that instant, too.

Dr. Holgate's mouth dropped open.

He had never danced in his life. He had this afternoon shared a brief dance companionship more precious than anything he had ever known before, and he wouldn't have broken its spell for a billion dollars and ten years of his life. But he didn't even know how to grasp the girl.

A terrifying, choking sensation swelled within him.

* * *

"No, no, my dear," she interrupted at once. "Thorny Holgate asked me 10 minutes ago for the next dance. You can't cheat me out of it."

She smiled at the girl, and the girl drifted away, smiling in return. This was all informal. Nobody cared what happened.

"Just walk, slow short steps," Sara Sue whispered in Thornton's ear. "Don't look down. And smile, even if it kills you!"

She hummed gaily herself, wisecracked at one of the other boys, clung closely to Thornton as if she were enjoying her dance immensely. Actually she was guiding his stiff form, and stepping fast to avoid tripping. Nobody noticed feet in an impromptu dance like that, however.

In a minute or so she had him at least walking in rhythm with the music. She kept him crowded in with the others, maintained constant chatter and laughing, covered up his embarrassment and confusion. Then all at once the music stopped.

"Thank me for it," whispered Sara Sue, unobserved.

"I—I—thank you madame," said Dr. Holgate, bowing, formally, red as a tomato.

"Oh, at it again!" she was still acting. "He's been teasing me for two days, calling me madam. Can I help being an old decrepit widow?"

* * *

The others all laughed with her, and so did not see Thornton's expression of surprise and confusion. She grabbed his hand as the others drifted to chairs. "Come in the office a minute, Thorny; I have those books I promised to show you."

Sheep-like, he followed her in. He was so grateful to hear the door close behind him that he sat down, trembling slightly. Sara Sue felt a sudden deep sympathy for him.

"Wonderful!" she lied, like a lady. "You're doing fine, Dr. Holgate. You are learning to mix with people. That's what you need, if you are going to run around with Geraldine Pomeroy. Peaches goes places, you know. Now you hustle right down and get at the dance lessons—you have a very good natural rhythm, by the way—and drop in here as often as you possibly can."

"Oh! Oh, I shall be eternally grateful, my dear Mrs. Davis. I shall—"

"My name, hereafter, is Sara Sue! Never call any woman madam, Thorny. Especially any young woman."

"But—"

"No buts! I'm the teacher here, now. You teach in the Rice mathematics halls, but I'm running the romance department, sir!" She smiled engagingly at him. "Now tell me, didn't you enjoy yourself just a little teeny bit today?"

"Yes! Yes, indeed. Oh, gracious."

She stared intently at him for a moment, analyzing him, a sparkle in her eyes. Finally she spoke again.

"Thorny, did you ever say—damn?"

"I beg pardon?"

"Listen, Thorny. You are a nice man, really. You are educated. You have traveled some. But you act like a sissy. I mean it—a sissy! . . . Don't look so shocked. Remember, I am your teacher. Now you must listen, and mind me. You are under contract with me, you know. And I say you act like a sissy. I don't want you to be mean, or vulgar ever. But—Thorny, don't say 'gracious.' Say something mannish, can't you? Anything. Don't curse, but—'damn' isn't so bad. And don't bow to people, Thorny. Just say 'How do you do?' or 'Hello' and smile at them as if you mean it, and talk a lot about nothing in particular. You know what always will open a happy conversation? You know what people always like to talk about most?"

"Why, ah—"

"That's true, I have observed it."

"Sure you have. Now you go out and study it, and apply it. Don't talk shop. And practice leaving off that long quizzical expression of yours. You have a—why, your eyes are very pretty, as a matter of fact—and you have a—"

She stopped abruptly.

"That's enough chiding for today," she smiled sweetly at him. "But you are making progress. Now I want you to sit right here and do an important thing. I want you to call Peaches Pomeroy and ask if you may take her to the freshman ball."

He did not answer. He just nodded.

"It's the Pomeroy on Calumet drive," she explained. "Here's the phone directory. You met her at the reception, you said. Well, that's all the 'in' you need. Call her up and kid her along, and casually ask her if you can take her to the dance."

* * *

She discovered that most of the collegians had departed. It was past the supper hour, she observed. They always left toward 6 o'clock, and drifted back about 7:30, a come-and-go group constantly changing.

Sara Sue was especially happy to have collected such congenial customers. She had tried to be tactful in admitting them to membership, carefully avoiding a few she felt would not be socially compatible. Two of her young men customers had turned out to be rather "unrefined," as she told her mother-in-law, and she had quietly but firmly returned their money and had done with them. But there had been very little unpleasantness, on the whole.

Dinner in the dormitories could hardly have been over before Bob Towne came in, munching an apple. He was beaming as usual, full of talk about the afternoon's football practice. He had just 10 minutes to stay, he declared, because coach wanted them back for skull practice before study time. He kidded her a lot and shouted at Calculus Jones, who poked a grinning face out of the kitchen door.

"I'd invite you to supper, Bob, but I'm afraid you'd accept and I don't want you," Sara Sue declared. "Cleo is making chicken dumpling. Ought to be about ready, I imagine. Go on away, can't you?"

"Not for five minutes! You can't bulldoze me. I've got to hang around. That freshman is trying to beat my time!"

"Silly! He's a nice enough boy. But neither of you have any 'time,' as you call it.

"Listen, Sara Sue, I'm serious. Honey, I'd do anything for you!"

"So I hear. So the whole campus hears, in fact."

"Aw now, Sara Sue! Don't be like that. You gave Slime Gurley that date just to make me mad. Didn't you?"

"I said yes when he asked me first to go to the freshman ball. I was an old widow. I was afraid nobody else would ask me. Anyhow, I like Gurley."

"Phooey," said Bob Towne. He wasn't making any progress with Sara Sue. He got up to leave. And at that instant Dr. Thornton Holgate came out of Sara Sue's private office.

* * *

The two men stared at eath other for a long moment. And for once Sara Sue, biting her lips, felt herself confused. She had to think fast.

"Bob, this is Dr. Holgate. Bob Towne."

Both men spoke politely.

"Dr. Holgate wanted to use my office for a telephone call, long distance," she explained, then blushed at the story. Why must she feel obligated to explain anything, she asked herself in some anger.

But Bob did not observe her confusion, and since he was already heading for the door he bade them good-bye and went on out. Sara Sue was grateful for that. She turned to Thornton Holgate.

"Well?" she smiled. "Must have had quite a talk. You were closeted with her for 20 minutes."

"Yes! I——I had some difficulty making her understand who I was. She meets quite a few people, no doubt. Perhaps I should have arranged to speak with her somewhere else, before telephoning."

"Then you didn't get the date."

"Not exactly. She—she postponed any commitment. I am to call her again, the night before the dance."

"Oh," said Sara Sue. "Um-huhm. I think I understand."

She did understand, although she did not explain to Dr. Holgate.

Peaches Pomeroy was waiting, Sara Sue knew, until she was absolutely sure Bob Towne would not call for a date. Then, if nothing else presented, she could always accept this Dr. Holgate, whoever he was.

NEW NOVEL ON SOUTH TELLS OF COTTON POWER

'Blackberry Winter,' Added by Library, Story of Rise and Fall of Merriman Family.

The cycle of southern books doesn't seem to be exhausted yet as Evelyn Hanna comes forth with "Blackberry Winter," a story of the rise and fall of the Merriman family. To the first members of this strangely turbulent and superior family, cotton spelled power, money and even poetry.

Paul Merriman, grandson of a primitive Georgia settler, is the hero of the book which covers a period from 1800 to 1870. This book, along with "Young Doctor Galahad" and several others are among the new fiction additions at the Public library.

"Young Doctor Galahad," written by Elizabeth Seifert, won $10,000 first novel prize. It is the narrative of a young doctor, his career, his girl, and his ideals. It is also a dramatic revelation of the problems of the present medical day.

Christmas Books.

On the Christmas book list are "A Town Is Born" by Tom Sayres; "So Gracious Is the Time" by Annie B. Kerr and "Christmas Days" by Joseph C. Lincoln. The first deals with the planning of an ideal homeplace for children, the second is a collection on the holiday observances of families from other countries, and the last gives an account of three Christmases in a Cape Cod family.

Among the Christmas plays are "Bed of Hay" and "Christmas Gift" by Peterson; "Christmas Trimmings," Phillips; "Faith and Works," Pettit, and "Made-to-Order Christmas" by Darwin.

Other fiction includes "One Tomorrow" by Wise; "Commander of the Mists," Murray; "Larger View," Kaverin; "The Killer," Wells; "Ricochets," Maurois; "Happy Island," Powell.

Shows Bromfield's Home.

On the non-fiction list and of particular interest to Mansfielders will be the book, "Small Homes of Distinction," which contains pictures of Louis Bromfield's home in Senlis, France. The book, edited by Horace Coon, gives both interior and exterior views of 50 houses selected for their good taste and design.

"Dunant: The Story of the Red Cross," by Martin Gumpert, is the biography of Henri Dunant, a rich banker of Geneva, conceived the idea of the Red Cross and devoted his life and fortune to this humanitarian cause.

The biography of Charles Laughton by his wife, Elsa Lanchester, "Charles Laughton and I," is also among the later additions, as is "Such Sweet Compulsion," the autobiography of Geraldine Farrar who became the brightest star of the "golden age of opera."

Other non-fiction includes "Problem of Following Jesus," Gilkey; "Below the Roaring Forties," Ommanney; "Made on Earth," Kingsmill; "Legends of the Long-House," Cornplanter; "Gold Deposits of the World," Emmons; "Modern Columbus," Mais; "Complete Book of Skiing," Hallberg and Muckenbrunn; "Field Guide to the Birds," Peterson; "Complete Model Aircraft Manual," Hamilton; "Foods America Gave the World," Verrill and Barrett; "Wallpaper: Its History, Design and Use," Ackerman, and "Clara Barton," Young.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Every young American knows about the Statue of Liberty which stands on Bedloe island in New York harbor, and extends a welcome to the New World, but not many of them know of the story that lies in back of the building of that colossal figure.

Frances Rogers has written and illustrated a most interesting book called "Big Miss Liberty," telling the story of the artist who conceived her. For five years the people of France had been trying to think of a gift, suitable to give to their sister republic. Auguste Bartholdi thought of a statue, and was sent to the new world to judge what kind would be most fitting. As his boat entered New York harbor he suddenly visualized the Statue of Liberty. It was 15 years before he saw it unveiled on October 28, 1886, the largest statue ever made.

MAPS CLINIC ON WAGE, HOUR LAW

C. of C. to Bring Official of State Chamber Here Dec. 16 to Clarify Regulations.

Frank P. Ward, director of the industrial relations department of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, in co-operation with the Mansfield chamber, will conduct a clinic here on the new wage and hour law Dec. 16, Paul W. Williams, secretary of the Mansfield C. of C. announced today.

The law has caused considerable confusion among employers and the infrequent interpretations dispatched from Washington have been meager, Williams said. Ward has been asked to clarify certain regulations as they apply to the employer.

Businessmen and merchants throughout the county will be invited to attend the clinic, Williams said, at which time Ward will answer questions relative to the law.

The meeting is to be held at 7:30 p. m. in the C. of C. assembly rooms on the fifth floor of the Farmers Bank building.

TURKEY AIDED

Deceased Dictator Wills Most of $5,000,000 to Nation.

ANKARA—(AP)—The late President Kamal Ataturk left the principal of his $5,000,000 estate to the nation under his will which was published here.

The will, drawn Sept. 5 gives the Republican People's party the remaining cash and valuables of the estate. Interest is to provide life incomes for his sister and five adopted daughters, a house for Sabina Gokeen, one of the daughters seriously ill of a nervous breakdown; the highest possible education for two children of Ataturk's successor, Ismet Inonu; the remaining income goes to the Society for the Promulgation of the Turkish Language and History.

With Berni-Vici Show Sunday

Historical Plot.

"Old Louisiana," a movie based on the Louisiana purchase, deals with the efforts of a trapper, played by Tom Keene, to avoid an uprising among the Spaniards. The picture, along with "Bad Guy," shows today and tomorrow at the new Ritz. Bruce Cabot, Virginia Grey and Edward Norris are starred in the film.

PHONE DESIGNED FOR POCKET USE

PASADENA, Cal. — A vest-pocket telephone which a person can carry and operate without the use of wires, is one of the possibilities of the near future, according to Dean T. Smith, engineer of the Southern California Telephone company.

Dean Smith has just revealed that the research department of his company has been working on this project for several years past and that they have now reached a point of development at which predictions can be safely made.

"Experiments made so far," said Smith, "reveal that a coil of wire so tiny that the strands can hardly be seen by the human eye develops a sufficient amount of magnetic electricity to carry the sound of voice a considerable distance without the use of ordinary wires.

"Since 1927, when the first telephone call was made to London, all limitations on telephoning in the world have been lifted."

Another development which is being made, according to Smith, is a keyboard arrangement on which a message can be written and, through a complicated system of tone controls, released on another continent in the form of the human voice.
